FREE STATE NOW ON ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Collapse of the Republican Movement Has Resulted in a Stable Government—Irish Paying Taxes

By CHARLES M. McCANN (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Copyright, 1923, by United Press

Dublin, June 20 (United Press).—Ireland at last faces an era of peace, and Irishmen, official and unofficial, believe that the Free State is already on the road to prosperity.

After seven years of successive rebellion, trouble and civil war, the problems of the country are those of ordinary government—finance and economics.

Eighteen months ago there was no government in southern Ireland. A year ago there was a vicious civil war.

Today the Republican movement has collapsed, and a stable, able Irish government is planning the country's future.

"During the last year," President Cosgrave said recently, "we had to build up an army, mobilizing a police organization and construct the fabric of a government."

"When we took up the business of government there was little but a local government department and an army headquarters."

"Now, if the people change the government the machine is there. Whether the new government is a capital or labor one, or a combination of the two, the machine is there—one that will be loyal to whatever government the people of the country elect."

The government, its machinery established, has begun to face its difficulties, and to balance its assets against its liabilities.

There Are Many Unemployed.

There are tens of thousands of unemployed men and women. There are 15,000 Republican prisoners in Irish jails. There is an over-large army, whose surplus must be assimilated into civil life. All these classes of men and women must be absorbed back into industry.

There is a prospective deficit of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 in the budget for the current fiscal year. A loan of $125,000,000 must be floated shortly. Rebuilding must be begun after the years of destruction of houses, factories and railways.

These are some of the difficulties. On the opposite side of the ledger may be cited some of the brighter aspects of the situation as Irishmen here see them.

The budget deficit is caused by the past necessity of a big army, and by the payment of compensation for destruction of private property. Rebuilding is expected to start immediately, and will help absorb soldiers, police prisoners and unemployed. Only 60 per cent of arable land is under cultivation, and steps which are already being taken to increase this percentage will increase employment. When bills are paid, Ireland will be practically without debt.

THE IRISH PAYING TAXES

But the most encouraging feature of the whole present situation is that Irishmen for the first time in their lives are willingly, even gladly paying taxes.

According to Free State officials, 70 per cent of taxes is being collected. Of between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 of arrears of taxes, about $15,000,000 have been collected since the Free State started to function.

As to the loan to be floated, the government hopes to place every dollar of it in Ireland itself. It will be used partly toward paying for the private property destroyed—the total bill for destruction has been estimated at from $125,000,000 to $200,000,000. When this compensation has been paid the loan itself will be almost Ireland's sole indebtedness—$125,000,000 for a nation of over 4,000,000 people.

HARDING OFF FOR CROSS NATION TRIP ARMED WITH SPEECHES OUTLINING THE RECORD OF HIS FIRST ADMINISTRATION

Washington, June 20.—President Harding left Washington today prepared, after a week's intensive preparation, to give to the country while en route to Alaska an account of his administration.

In reviewing the record, Mr. Harding will outline problems that must be met and his policies for meeting them. While he disclaims any political significance in this tour, he has prepared speeches on several of the big issues of 1924, including transportation problems, the wet and dry issue, difficulties of the farmer, taxes and the tariff.

Until almost train time, the President continued to work on the first batch of speeches he will deliver on his swing through the west. Beginning at St. Louis tomorrow night with a speech on the World Court, he will end his outbound speaking trip on July 5 at Tacoma, Wash., where he boards the navy transport "Henderson" for Alaska.

ERWIN BERGDOLL IS RE-ARRESTED AS HE LEAVES PEN

Leavenworth, Kan., June 20.—Erwin Bergdoll, brother of the wealthy slayer Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, was re-arrested, charged with conspiracy to evade the draft, as he stepped from the federal penitentiary here today.

Bergdoll, plainly showing the effects of his long confinement, was released from prison shortly before twelve o'clock after serving three years for evading the draft laws.

A United States Marshall, armed with a warrant charging conspiracy with three men in Philadelphia to escape the draft, was waiting as the big gates of the prison ground swung open. The party started to Kansas City where Bergdoll will be arraigned.

SECRETARY GORDON OF THE STATE GAME COMMISSION HERE

Secretary Seth E. Gordon, the energetic and capable Secretary of the State Game Commission in company with Messrs W. G. Conklin and J. B. Turman, attaches of the Commission, were in Clearfield today enroute back to Harrisburg after a tour through the mountain district which was swept by fire during the big fires the latter part of May and first of June. The gentlemen were accompanied by State Game Protectors W. C. Kelley, of DuBois and W. J. Davis, of Clearfield, who were on the job fighting the fires and had first hand information on the burned area.

Secretary Gordon felt very badly over the apparent destruction of the forests and the undoubted loss of game, and said this outbreak simply demonstrated the need for more stringent safeguarding against forest fires, although both the game and forestry departments had used every precaution at hand against just what occurred. He further said the great need was to get fresh men quickly to the scene to reinforce the tired out fire fighters and said something surely would have to be done toward improving the roads into the State forests.

The Secretary in closing a brief talk with the writer said he thought the Penfield road was the worst public road into a State forest he knew of in the State and was a great drawback at all times of emergency such as we had just passed through.

W. C. T. U. DRY FUND TO BE IN HANDS OF GOVERNOR ALONE

Harrisburg, Pa., June 20.—Governor Pinchot will have exclusive jurisdiction over the $250,000 law enforcement fund to be raised by the W. C. T. U., according to a statement today by Mrs. Marion, Treasurer and Custodian.

"Every penny of the fund will be placed in a depository subject to the legal disposal of the Governor as he may arrange for the reinforcement of the regularly constituted police power of the state," said Mrs. Marion. "Her statement was issued to counteract the misapprehension concerning the purpose and disposal of the funds, it was explained. 'There has never been a thought or suggestion of using a penny of the $250,000 fund the women are raising,' it was explained. The statement adds 'In the employment of external means, men, measures or force.'"

Pocono, Pa., June 20.—Four Catholic priests are in a serious condition today as a result of bullet wounds received when a band of youths attacked the home of Rev. Father Herlinger, Priest of the Engelberg Catholic church.

Reappointed

Frederick T. Thompson, newspaper publisher of Birmingham, Ala., who has been reappointed as a commissioner of the United States Shipping Board. Mr. Thompson, a Democrat, was first appointed by President Wilson in 1920, reappointed in 1921 by President Harding, who now extends his commission for another term.

Million-Dollar Oil Blaze

A more whim of the wind prevented the burning oil which swept into the Allegheny River during a $1,000,000 oil blaze at Pittsburgh from destroying one of the main bridges connecting Pittsburgh with the north side industrial section. After a stubborn 30-hour fight, the fire, which was started by lightning, was finally put under control.

TALL CEDAR FOREST NO. 93 WAS INSTITUTED AT CURWENSVILLE YESTERDAY WITH BIG DAY OF FESTIVITY AND FELLOWSHIP

Curwensville, Pa., June 19, 1923.—Curwensville was a busy place yesterday. Good fellowship and cheer yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the institution of Keystone Forest No. 93, Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

The big delegation from Mountain Forest, Ebensburg, headed by the Tall Cedar Band, arrived early in the afternoon and kept things humming until the time set for the ceremonial at the Opera House.

At the ceremonial the Curwensville Forest was duly instituted and Grand Tall Cedar George L. Benner, Senior Deputy C. H. Ammerman, Junior Deputy J. Emmett Harder, Scribe, Philip H. Thompson, Treasurer, Meritt A. Callwell were inducted into office and will rule over Keystone Forest for the balance of the year. Following the installation on hundred "saplings" were taken in tow and given the pruning, cultivation and other treatment necessary to fit them to be Tall Cedars. A few were found to be in need of special attention and on these the carpenters labored until the hour of five thirty.

The parade after the ceremonial was an impressive sight, there being one hundred and seventy-five Tall Cedars in line, each wearing the natty pyramid of a Tall Cedar. Again the Tall Cedar band was brought into play and furnished spirited marching music for the parade which wound up at the lawn of the Presbyterian church where a wonderful dinner was served by the ladies of that congregation. The day came to a perfect end with a concert on the lawn by the Curwensville band.

Keystone Forest starts out with one hundred members and is destined to be eminently successful under the officership of the men chosen. Tall Cedarism has a mission to perform in bringing good cheer and fellowship among men and since Keystone Forest is so centrally located in the country it will not be surprising to see it have five hundred members within five years.

MARION STAR SOLD TO COLUMBUS AND SALEM PUBLISHERS

Washington, D. C. June 20.—President Harding has sold the Marion Star, it was announced at the White House today. The sale is to Lewis Bush, publisher of the Salem Ohio News and two newspapers at East Liverpool, Ohio, and to Roy Moore, a resident of Columbus, Ohio.

One Killed, Several Are Injured, in Savannah, Ga. Riot In Effort To Lynch

Savannah, Ga., June 20.—Savannah was quiet today following a riot during which one man was killed and several injured in an attempt to storm the jail in which Walter Lee, a negro, was imprisoned. Lee was accused of attacking a white girl but protested his innocence.

Sheriff Merritt Dixon called on military authorities for assistance when a mob of 2,000 persons swarmed about the jail intent on lynching the negro. Shortly after the military control arrived one section of the group became threatening and a volley was fired over the crowd. O. U. Parker, Jr., one of the crowd, was killed and several injured in subsequent shooting.

Sound Investments- And The Opposite

An address made before the Clearfield Commercial Club, by Frederick Carles of Harper & Turner, Philadelphia.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

It is customary for a person who is in the position that I am now to make his remarks interesting by the relation of jokes and more or less humorous stories. I am at that disadvantage of having been asked to speak on a serious subject, and while in the business of investing money, as in all departments of human effort, there are amusing incidents, the larger number of our stories are not funny and there is no pleasure in relating them.

The subject of my talk is to be "Sound Investment versus the Opposite," with the application of your slogan "See Your Banker." If it is agreeable, I shall reverse the order.

Your banker is a merchant, dealing in money and credits, which is a business requiring a more intimate knowledge of the community he serves and the people who live there than many may suspect. He has before him at all times the problem of financing deserving local business and yet he must be prepared, on short notice and perhaps no notice at all, to return to his depositor who own the money he has loaned for the uses of business and trade. He makes this possible through the study of the averages of demand and supply and protect himself by the establishment of what are called reserves, and a position of these reserves are represented by investments. Your banker, consequently must, to be successful, have a working knowledge of the principles of sound investment just the same as he must keep before him for the good of his bank, the best interests of the people of his community. Generally speaking he knows more about you than you may think and can, without doubt, give a very close estimate of the kind of investment that it would be proper for you to make, if it is right for you to make investment at all.

You should remember, however, that your banker is probably a very busy man whose time is taken up with the management of the bank. To follow the progress of the many corporations having securities in the ownership of individuals requires much time. In fact it is a specialized job, and it would be quite unusual if your banker were able, in an off-hand way, to give an opinion which he could support on the majority of securities which are bought and sold in fair volume almost every business day, or on securities of very recent issue. If you should ask your banker about securities in which his institution has made investment, he should be well able to advise. So that, in fairness to him, when asking your banker for advice on investment subjects you should either allow him sufficient time for inquiry, or expect that he will offer you the same advice that Punch did to young people about to marry—DON'T.

Sound Investments

There are three classes of people who invariably lose money through what are called "bad investments": The avaricious, who hope to derive large profits from small risks; the impulsive, who rush into deals without due thought or investigation; and the glib, who accept all sorts of glowing promises and guarantees from strangers without reservation. These people are open game for confidence men and other crooks, and I do not know of any way in which they can be protected except by the strict enforcement of the laws, and there have been laws prohibiting such things as the exploitation of these people for thousands of years. They will not be advised—in fact experience shows that they seldom talk about their ventures until after their losses are evident.

One way in which these people are defrauded is through the sale to them of what are called "stocks." The certificate is merely the medium. Those who sell these certificates are not bankers, or, in fact, business people; they are confidence men using in combination the progress of science with the record of successful industry. I can easily remember, within my own experience, how these people have exploited the successes of others in the mining of gold and other precious metals, gems, by advertising and distributing stocks of their own so-called corporations during a period when established enterprises were doing well and being talked about. They follow the progress of the times: About 25 years ago, when the wireless telegraph was a new thing, the country was flooded with the stocks of companies which, it was said, would do business in the transmission of intelligence. At about the same time the chemists were experimenting with liquid air and that was well capitalized. So it was with many things up to recent years during which it has been chiefly natural gas and oil, automobiles and accessories, chain stores and so forth. In fact, in all of the various departments of industry in which there have been notable successes. The people who sell stocks of these types are usually working in violation of the criminal laws, hiding under the known respectability of the investment banker. If later on there should come some easier way of separating a fool from his money, they will no doubt adopt it, although, perhaps, we shall always have with us, in some form, the fakir of stocks.

During the past three years you have read of the failure of many bucket shops. The bucket shop makes its appeal to the avaricious—to the person who wants all profits and no losses, and bucket shops invariably go down in rising markets, when their customers' profits are in sight. While the operators of bucket shops have a knowledge of the principles of brokerage, and call themselves brokers, they are really gamblers taking what seems to be the safe end of a bet. Their victims have no one to blame but themselves, because it will be evident to anybody that any organization that advertises to do business in stock exchange stocks without holding membership on the exchange, is advertising its desire to do business at a loss and that ought to be warning enough for anyone. But I am sorry to have to say all of the failures which you may have read about were not the failures of bucket shops. In business in the aggregate, the proportion of misfortune maintains its ratio to the volume of business done and some part of that proportion of failure extends to the several departments of banking. You sometimes read of the breakdown of an established banking house just the same as you hear of the fall of a bank or well regarded industry. That is one of the hazards of business, and so long as we go on under the present scheme of things, we shall surely have some proportion of failure in legitimate business. But it is extremely seldom that you hear of losses by people who have been doing a conservative business through the failure of their investment banker. Speculators may lose; that is a chance they take. Investors who buy and pay for investments seldom go unprotected.

Impulsive and glib people have lost money through the attempt to finance new enterprise—promotion. Capital is an essential to the promotion of invention and discovery, but what very few people seem to realize is the fact that there is always plenty of ready capital for the good things. Consequently those whose financing they take part in are in an undesired class at the start. Securities of promotions are, in large part, sold to the public for reasons of questionable merit, or because the owner of an invention or discovery places his selling price too high.

The earmarks of a promotion are the references to such successes as the telephone, the air-brake, the Ford motor, Standard Oil, Coca Cola, and so forth. You will be quite safe if you will refuse to buy the security of any company whose prospectus quotes the large profits made by original subscribers to the stocks of these companies, unless it also quotes the losses made by others who bought stocks of companies formed to do the same kind of business during the same period.

But misfortune in promotion enterprises is not confined to losses through the purchase of stocks. For instance, 15 years or so ago effort was made to colonize the desert areas of the northwestern states. The scheme was to irrigate the land and farm it. The idea was good but the execution was awful! Campaigns for the sale of bonds secured upon these to-be-irrigated territories were very comprehensive and hundreds of thousands of people bought the bonds. Some of the properties worked out all right and the bonds became good investments, but the large majority failed and those who owned the bonds lost their money. So likewise have there been poorly conceived railroads and trolley lines as well as business enterprises of various kinds in which capital has been dissipated.

The recognized business of dealing in investments is divided into two chief departments, investment banking and brokerage, and while it might have been easily possible to buy stuff of the classes that I have discussed through a brokerage department, it would be almost impossible to get it through any fairly conservative investment banking organization. They would not and could not afford to handle it. This works down to nothing else than, for safety, to do your investment business with a conservative investment house. Out of the great volume of advertising it would be very hard, without any other guide, to select a conservative house, and for this purpose I return to your slogan: See Your Banker.

Perhaps you would like to know how desirable investments are produced. I mean, now, the kind your banker might buy. To make explanation easy, let us suppose that a nearby manufacturer wants to branch out and sell his products in a wider territory. To do this he will need a larger plant, new machinery, more raw material, more workmen and clerks and more working capital—say that it will require five million dollars to cover everything, and application is made to an investment house for a loan to that amount. The processes are, first to determine the wisdom of the idea; to check the quality of the goods this manufacturer makes and to be sure that there is good and permanent demand for them; to verify his integrity as a business man and to establish not only his ability to repay the loan at the right time, but also to establish his willingness to repay it. After that has been done, specialists are called in. Engineers or others specializing in the values of large business properties value the fixed assets of this business for the purpose of determining that, in a going business, its properties represent good and ample mortgage security for the sum of money the business wishes to borrow. Public accountants certify to the amount of business, expressed in dollars, that has been done during the past years, the object being to be sure that the business, as it was, can comfortably earn more than the interest and other charges on the new money; even though the new department may be unproductive. Lawyers look into the records and documents for the purpose of knowing that the loan, if made, will be legal and binding in all its details. All these things being satisfactory, the loan is adjusted to an issue of bonds and you are given the opportunity to make investment in them.

ing of the late fruit, but the fact remains that there are sure to be heavy losses in the end of the season.

Many of the growers are already looking forward to next season. They feel that, had the season not been so dry this year, their enterprises would have netted them nice financial gains where they had failed in other years because of poor sales arrangements, and that now with better plans worked out for the disposal of their products normal growing seasons will bring returns that merit their intensifying efforts for next year.—(DuBois Express.)

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S.S.S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils, it fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

FLOWING GOLD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray is the enemy of Henry Nelson of Dallas. Gray falls in love with Barbara Jackson, daughter of Tom Parker, who informs Tom that Gray has been dishonorably discharged from the army. Gray is friendly with Gus Briskow, who strikes oil, and the daughter, Alice, and son, Bud. Both think Gray is a hero. Gray and Briskow buy enough stock in the bank where Nelson's father is president to give Briskow control of the bank. Gray and Briskow attend a meeting of the bank's directors. Gray shows the stock which has been bought by Briskow and himself.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Henry made his way to his father's side; they withdrew to a corner and lent their heads together, murmuring inaudibly. Gray watched them with unblinking intensity; he nodded to Buddy Briskow, and the latter, as if heeding some prearranged signal, removed his hands from his pockets and stepped farther into the room. He, too, watched the agitated pair.

"Why—look here!" the secretary gasped, after a moment or two. "This—this gives you control!"

Bell Nelson raised a stricken face. "Control?" he repeated, faintly. "Control?" He strode to the end of the table, and with shaking hands he ran through the sheet of neatly folded certificates. "Sold out, by God!" He fell to cursing certain men, the names of whom caused Swope and Murphy and Gage to prick up their ears.

Gray was still staring at the junior Nelson; it was to him more than to the father he spoke: "Sold out is right! It came high, but I think it was worth the price. We intend to vote our stock."

"By that I infer that you're going to take the bank over—take its management away from Bell and Henry?" Bennett Swope ventured.

"Naturally."

The older Nelson voiced an unintelligible exclamation. "That's a pretty rough deal. Bell has put his life into it. It is an—an institution, a credit to the community. It would be a misfortune if it fell into the hands of—into the control of somebody who—". The ranchman hesitated, then blurted forth, angrily: "Well, I don't like the look of this thing. I want to know what it means."

"I'll tell you," Henry cried, unquenchably. "I'll tell you what it means. Reputational. Reputational! Hatred! I quarreled with this man, in France. He's vindictive; he followed me here—tried every way to ruin me—cost me thousands, hundreds of thousands of dollars. Father and I were—we were plucked. We had to realize some quick money to protect our holdings—officers and the like—and we sold a lot of our stock with the understanding that we could—that we would buy it back at a higher figure. We only borrowed on it, you might say—hypothecated it. We thought we were dealing with friends, but—Friends! My God! The speaker scolded his head.

"The stock was not hypothecated. You sold it," Gray said, quietly, "and we bought it in."

"It is all a personal matter, a grudge."

"Is that true, Mr. Gray?" Swope inquired.

"Substantially. But I'm waiting for Colonel Nelson to tell you more;

to tell you the whole story of our antagonism."

Martin Murphy, who had been a silent onlooker up to this point, made himself heard. "Mr. Gray, I don't like the look of this any better than Swope does. You say you paid high for your stock; do you intend to wreck the institution, lose a fortune—"

"I had ventured to hope that you three gentlemen would remain on the board."

"He doesn't want the bank," Henry Nelson exclaimed, hoarsely. "That's all a bluff. He wants his price. How much, Gray? What'll it cost us?"

"Oh, there is a price for everything! Mine will surprise you, however, it is so low. Can't you guess what it is?" The speaker's intent gaze had never left Henry Nelson's face; he was fixed there now, as cold, as relentless as the stare of a python.

Bell Nelson leaned forward, his lips parted, a new eagerness came into his purple countenance. "Well,

"I'll tell you what it means. PERSECUTION! REVENGE!"

"What is it?" he demanded, quaveringly.

"There was a moment of silence. 'What is he talking about, Henry?' Bell's eyes were strained toward his son.

"I don't know," the latter said, in a thin voice. "He's crazy—always was."

"I'm giving you a chance, Colonel. You'd better take it. Think carefully!" When there came no response to this warning, Gray shrugged. "Very well! There is nothing further, except to complete the transfer and proceed with the business of the meeting. Mr. Briskow will be the next president, and I shall occupy the position of vice president and treasurer now held by you."

The effect of this declaration was electric. With a cry the younger Nelson lunged forward. Confusion followed. It was of short duration, however, for Henry found himself locked in the arms of the Briskow slant.

Gray continued. "I have something to say to you gentlemen before we go on with the meeting, and I wish to say it in the presence of Colonel Nelson and his—"

"You'll not keep me here, I refuse to stay," Henry shouted, and he pushed past Swope toward the door.

"Wait!" It was the elder Nelson speaking, and in his voice was a new note—a note of triumph. "Stock can't be transferred at an annual meeting. It has to be done in advance—ten days, I think it is. Am I right, Senator?"

"That is the usual procedure," Senator Lowe agreed.

"Then there won't be any meeting!" Bell loudly declared. "I think we'd better go," someone said. "This is extraordinary—We're in no frame of mind to go ahead—"

"I must insist that you remain long enough to hear me out. You have no right to refuse. There is something you must be told."

"I'll admit I'm curious to know what the devil it all means," Murphy, the lumberman, confessed; "but I don't know that I should accept an explanation from you. We after Henry's accusations. I've known him and Bell for years—"

"I respect your friendship for them, and I shouldn't expect you to put trust in my words. It seems to me, however, that you owe it to that friendship to hear me. This incident has taken a turn wholly unexpected, and I must confess to expecting a different outcome—hoped to be able to force an explanation—"

The speaker shook his head and frowned again, perplexedly. When, after a moment of indecisive murmuring, the three directors seated themselves, Gray thanked them with a bow. "I'll be as brief as possible, and if you don't mind I'll stand as I talk. I'm in no mood to sit. I'll have to go back a bit—"

It was several seconds before he resumed.

"When it became evident that the United States was going to war, I managed to get in at Plattsburg and took the officers' training course. It was easy for me to complete that course, because I had served in the Spanish War and had kept up my interest in military affairs. Something convinced those who ought to know that I was qualified for an appointment in the country—wide business experience at home and abroad, a knowledge of languages—"

"I was called to Washington. There I met Henry Nelson—a valuable man, too, in his way. We got acquainted at the same time and engaged in the same work—military intelligence. I didn't like the job, but it was considered important, and naturally I couldn't pick and choose. Of course it was secret, confidential work. No need of going into that here."

"Nelson's and my duties were identical, our authority was equal; we were ordered to work hand in hand, and although we were confidential together, technically, he outranked me owing to the fact that he was given his commission a moment before I got mine."

"When we arrived in France I tackled my job with all the energy I had; I tried for results. Nelson, I discovered in time, was concerned only in taking entire credit for all that he and I did, and the whole organization under us accomplished and in advancing himself, I worked; he played politics."

"I rebelled. I had to, or be made ridiculous. I warned him, privately, man to man. He, however, the warning. I then prepared a complete report, showing by the copies of his orders, by the records of his confidential work, by our correspondence, how he had systematically and maliciously endeavored to nullify my work and add to the like. It was not a pretty report to read. I turned it in to him for submission higher up."

"Then it was that he outgeneraled me. He was furious, of course, but he apologized—sincerely. He said that he had been wrong; that he had imposed upon me. He promised to play fair if I'd permit him to withdraw the report, and I was deceived."

"For a while we worked in harmony. I became engaged in an intricate case, having to do with a leak concerning transport sailings and routes—a matter involving the lives of thousands of boys—millions of dollars in supplies, and I went to Brest, under cover. It had to be handled with extreme care—some danger about it, too. A very interesting case, I assure you. I lived in a house with some of the people under surveillance. One of them was a woman, extremely attractive—thoroughly unscrupulous. My avenue of approach was through her; Nelson, of course, knew what I was doing; he was about the only one who did."

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

By a recent amendment of the Pennsylvania law that establishes the legal weights of commodities for the state, the respective bushel weights of apples and barley have been increased, and those for cranberries, cucumbers, unshelled green peas, tomatoes and turnips decreased.

The greatest reduction was made in the case of unshelled green peas, from 56 to 28 pounds.

The state department of agriculture publishes the following handy reference table of legal bushel weights now in force in Pennsylvania:

AUTO CAMP SITES AID IN "SEEING AMERICA FIRST"

The development of motor camp sites in the United States to the point where there are now 1,927 for the benefit of the week end and cross country tourists is one of the greatest boons to "See America First" movement the country has known according to J. J. Norther, general sales manager of the Oakland Motor Car company.

"In fact the tremendous camp site development has been an endless series of all around good," he states "It enables those of moderate means to take long trips without the necessity of remaining at a hotel over night."

"It takes whole families with cars out into the open as never before, affording healthful living at a minimum of expense. It enables Americans to see their own country—a privilege which previously had only been the privilege of the wealthy."

"And for the communities supporting such camps, it means all that additional revenue which the motorists spend for their needs while camping at these stopping places."

"It means also another additional use for the automobile to bring health and happiness to humanity."

"The movement which is as yet in its infancy, deserves the support of all public organizations in every community."

INSIST ON GETTING A FULLY ADJUSTED WATCH, ONE THAT HAS PASSED THE TEST OF ACCURACY IN ALL POSITIONS

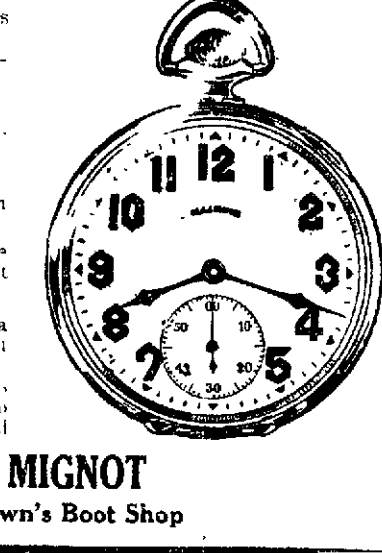

Then you needn't worry about future changes in watch inspection demands.

Originally, railroad watches were not adjusted to positions. Later, three position adjustments were required.

Now, the inspectors are not allowed to pass any watches adjusted to less than five positions.

For the present, five position watches are standard. But railroad requirements are continually going higher—not lower.

So why take any chances on a five position watch when you can just as easily get the Bunn Special? Bunn Special watches, which are adjusted to ten positions, are a real

Everyone who will be able to give any time at all or thinks they might be asked to come and help make out a tentative schedule. This was a most successful feature of the program last summer and was carried through quite perfectly by the committee due to the fine spirit of co-operation of the story tellers themselves. This opportunity to help is open to everyone—there are a number of younger girls who are very clever at this and much is hoped from them.

Warren Harding is no different from the rest of us when he starts out on a trip. One day out and he sells his newspaper. If he is like the rest of us he will be lucky to own his trousers by the time he gets home.

Do you ever stop to think how nice it is to live in such a community as Clearfield is; where practically everybody knows each other by their first name, and where party and creed has not been permitted to form a barrier? A lot of people are going to think pretty hard before they permit anybody to interfere with such a happy and desirable condition, particularly the stranger who comes among us bearing nothing but prejudices and whisperings born of ignorance and fostered by avarice.

Look over the report of the Children's Aid Society, which conducts the so-called Children's Home on Old Town Road. Only a very small percentage of our citizens know anything about the magnitude of the task that confronts the officers of the institution. Fortunately it is, that children have such a home to be sent to, and happy indeed are those who have their homes there. Look over this report, ask questions about it and learn what you can do to help. There is work for all.

To some people the immediate arrest of Erwin Bergdoll when he was released from prison today on charges similar to those on which he was imprisoned, may appear to be persecution. To our mind it is entirely fitting. Some other man filled Bergdoll's place on the firing line. Perhaps that substitute is now in his grave or wasting away from wounds and diseases contracted in the service. Sympathy and sentiment are wonderful attributes of the human heart, but there is plenty of opportunity for them to be brought into full play without a Bergdoll.

That the strawberry crop of the Luthersburg region is endangered by the heat and dry weather is a fact known to all who have looked over the beds in that productive region, where it was expected that there would be a twenty-five carload crop. However, a good rain within the next three or four days ought to save it. The berries are just beginning to form and at the worst should be no more than late. Cheaper berries will be coming. There is no occasion for being stampeded into buying berries at high prices. We always have "small crop" sales.

LASTING SHADOWS OF FEAR

By FLORENCE DAVIES

It was late breakfast hour and the big cafeteria was almost empty.

"Do you mind if I bring my tray and come over here by you?" asked an acquaintance at a nearby table, "I just can't sit alone."

"Mind? Why of course I don't mind, I'm delighted," I said as I moved my tray off the table to make room for her.

"It seems silly of me doesn't it?" the girl added, "but some times I just can't be alone, I feel as if the walls were falling in on me."

"So that's it," I said to myself, "Nerves."

It hardly seemed possible that a girl of twenty, with nothing in the world to worry about, should have acquired a well-developed fear like that.

"Perhaps," I suggested quietly, "there's something worrying you and you'd rather not talk about it. You needn't tell me," I added, "but it would be a whole lot better if you'd go and tell a doctor."

"But that's just it," the girl replied, face acquiver, "I don't know what to tell. I'd just as soon tell you if I knew what was wrong. But I don't understand it myself. I've always been this way, more or less, ever since I was a little girl. Right now there's nothing the matter except a little loss of sleep and the work has been a little hard. I suppose I've tried to burn the candle at both ends some too," she added.

"But even so," I argued, "That oughtn't to account for a mental state of this kind. Youngsters like you have always worked all day and played half the night, and while it's foolish, it doesn't usually result in hallucinations."

Black darkness is not the only thing of which children are afraid. Only the nerve specialists know what a price these frightened children pay for the thoughtlessness of a well-meaning mother.

How gently, then, should she have been helped through this first dark channel of fear, least a slight stumble should jar the sensitive organism and leave a lasting scar. Today the girl of twenty is paying with "nerves" for the thoughtlessness of a well-meaning mother.

Swatfest In DuBois Ends In 13-8 Victory For The Clearfield Baseball Team

The Clearfield American Legion baseball team journeyed to DuBois yesterday afternoon and last evening before a magnificent audience composed of about twenty men, ten women, eight boys and three members of the Ku Klux Klan, succeeded in giving the DuBois Athletics a severe drubbing, winning the game by the score of 13 to 8.

The local boys started out like a whirlwind and before the third man was retired in the first inning had chased six runs across the rubber. This desirable result was brot about by four errors on the part of DuBois players, with a triple by Sol Robinson, Lansberry's single and a double from the bat of Rex Fauver.

A. Kohlhepp and Showers pitched for DuBois and were nixed for 13 hits. Rex Fauver, who took things easy after the big lead taken in the first inning, was touched up for 14 safe swats by the DuBois sluggers. Robinson, Lansberry and Flegal led the Clearfield team with the bat, while Spellan was the star slugger for DuBois.

VACATION DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL
Last night the meeting of the general committee brought several features of the school to almost a final action. The list of teachers was revised. By Friday night it will be accepted.

The course of study was provisionally adopted. The filling in for each day is now in process of completion. Three grades have been established: Beginners to include all under seven years; primary will receive children of seven, eight and nine years of age; juniors all more than nine years.

Beginners course will be on hymns, sung, interpreted and memorized; music, with marches and drills, Bible stories that present children and young heroines from the great characters of sacred history; kindergarten work in drawing and cutting on line maps of the Holy Land. Scripture memorized.

Primary work will cover the beginning basic studies, but emphasized and adapted to primary grade ages stressing the biography and geography of the Bible; memorization of portions—especially the love verses, children's verses, first verses, beatitudes, psalms, commandments; mission verses of Christ and Paul. Special interpretation of hymns by motion.

Juniors will take up extensive memory work in hymns, scripture selections and the Bible as book, with its parts of law, history, devotion, prophecy, Gospel, epistles to churches and individuals, etc. The geography of the Holy Land will be broadened to cover not only outline maps of that country in its historic periods, but its rivers, mountains, cities, while biography will list up the famed characters of the Old Testament and New, a life of Christ. Mission as set forth in the New Testament, with the central position in stewardship—that we belong—everything of us, what we are and acquire, time and strength, etc., to God.

At graduation, will be a dramatization of a leading scripture character. The length of the school period is to be three weeks. Enrolling scholars opens on Sunday in the churches. Miss Lackey, deaconess of the Presbyterian church, will supervise that work.

COMPILING WORLD WAR DATA

Advancements of Men and Women During Great Conflict to Be Recorded in General History.

Compilation of the achievements of the men and women of the World war, and the establishment of a national historical archives for the preservation of documents and important data concerning the campaigns of the war, is the principal work which has fallen to the office of the national historian of the American Legion.

One of the most recent advances of this important work in the Legion marching at headquarters in Indianapolis, is the completion of the biographical data of the men whose World war careers and prominence in Legion history will be of interest to Legion men in future years.

John E. Furness, of Wellesley Farms, Mass., national historian of the organization, whose entire time is devoted to the obtaining of data and records for the continuance of the archives section of the Legion, has designated much of this work for biographical reference to Harvey G. Thomas, assistant national historian formerly of the Illinois Legion.

Under Mr. Thomas' direction, accumulation of this data concerning nearly 8,000 Legion members throughout the 11,000 posts of the organization in the world is progressing rapidly. Comprehensive questionnaires have been sent out and there is already a mass of this matter in his office, awaiting classification.

In preparation of this general history of the Legion, the history of each post is necessary. Through the state organization, requests are made to the individual posts for names of organizers, dates, the officers since the chartering of the unit, the progress in membership annually, all of which points out definitely the leaders in that post. This information is in turn gathered by the department historian, executive committee meetings and conferences. This combined with the post history will give the entire department history. The history of posts and departments will be added to the biographical data obtained by Mr. Thomas, making complete records for a Legion history, publication of which is now contemplated.

Thomas entered the service early in May, 1917. He received a commission of lieutenant in infantry shortly afterwards and was assigned to the Fifty-eighth infantry, which later became a unit of the Fourth division. He went overseas with this organization and was with the regiment during the Aisne-Marne campaign. Wounded at Fismes, he was returned to the United States, landing on Annapolis day, and was released from the service in July, 1920, with the rank of captain.

FLOWERS ON NURSES' GRAVES

Maj. Julia C. Stinson Makes Trip to Paris to Decorate Last Resting Places.

Honoring the last resting places of eleven American nurses who sleep in Suresnes cemetery in France, an impressive ceremony conducted by United States representatives, and attended by American residents in France, recently marked the decoration of the graves of these brave women. Their bodies lie in the American cemetery, where sleep nearly 1,500 other American World war dead.

The cemetery, now a shrine of American patriotism, was chosen for the services presided over by Maj. Julia C. Stinson, former chief of the American nursing service and a member of the Jane A. Delano post of the American Legion of Washington, D. C. Major Stinson made the trip to France for the purpose of decorating the graves.

Col. Francis A. Drake of Paris represented the American Legion of Continental Europe at the services. Elliott Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the treasury of the United States, was present, as was Col. T. Bentley Mott of the American embassy, and other prominent members of the American colony in Paris. Prayers were recited by Dr. Frederick Beckman of the American church of the Holy Trinity.

Additional Wards Ordered.
An additional ward building has been authorized by the Oklahoma legislature for the Soldiers' Tubercular home at Sulphur, due to the efforts of the American Legion of that state. The legislature also authorized the construction of an additional ward to care for mentally incompetent and shell-shocked veterans at the Norman (Okla.) hospital, another suggestion of the Legionnaires. The expenditures in the two cases will reach $200,000.

These Calves Will "Go to College."

Ralph W. Selkirk of Fishtail, Montana, recently gave three Hereford calves to the endowment fund of Beloit college, Beloit, Wisconsin. Selkirk agreed to raise the calves and sell them when fat, giving the proceeds to his Alma Mater. "The Herefords will double in weight and probably triple in value," he said. "The college will get about three times as much money as it would if I simply made a cash donation." Selkirk's calves were born in Beloit in 1911.

AMERICANS CONSUME LESS MEAT IN 1922

Report on Per Capita Consumption Made Public by the Agricultural Department.

The individual American ate 25.4 pounds less meat in 1922 than he did in 1900. That is the substance of a report on per capita meat consumption just made public by the Department of Agriculture. This report has been received with intense interest by live stock raisers, packers, retailers and others whose business it is to supply meat.

These interests have recently perfected an organization which will conduct a nation-wide educational and advertising campaign to increase the consumption of meat. The live stock and meat board is composed of 11 representatives of producer organizations and six representatives from commission firms, packers and retailers. The board has selected R. C. Pollock as managing director in active charge of the campaign work.

The Department of Agriculture is actively backing the educational campaign of the board. Just recently a poster indorsing the food value of meat has been printed by the department.

R. C. Pollock, Managing Director.

This poster will play an important role in the national campaign. Live stock interests in general feel that the increasing of meat consumption to normal would have a great influence toward national prosperity.

It is a common belief among live stock men that unscrupulous statements by various interests have made a false impression upon the minds of the general public as to the food value of meat and its relation to health and vigor. With this in mind the educational campaign which is now under way is not to tell the general public to eat more meat but to tell the truth about meat.

ILLINOIS EXCHANGE DOES BIG BUSINESS

Report Shows That 1,052 Cars of Fruit Were Distributed During Season of 1922.

J. B. Leeper, manager of the Illinois Fruit exchange, has just made public the report of the business handled by the exchange in 1922. The report shows that 1,052 cars of fruit were marketed during the season, representing an aggregate value of $300,000, one or more cars of fruit found market in at least 115 points in 24 states and four Canadian provinces.

Affiliation of the Illinois exchange with the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., promises an even wider distribution during the season of 1923.

Apples, peaches, pears and strawberries were the fruits handled by the exchange during the year. Apples head the list with 701 cars shipped, closely followed by peaches with 432 cars. Strawberry and pear shipments totaled 70 and 50 cars, respectively. In addition, three mixed shipments were made.

The Illinois fruit exchange was organized in 1901 by county farm bureaus in co-operation with the fruit and vegetable marketing department of the Illinois Agricultural Association. Counties now having local organizations are: Adams, Clay, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Marion, Massac, Pulaski, St. Clair, Union and Williamson.

The work of directing the carlot sale and distribution is done at the headquarters in Centralia, Ill.

Assembling of the products was accomplished through the local organizations in the various counties. A majority of these locals had their own packing houses, including in their equipment, modern sizing machinery. Standardization and grading of the fruit was done at the local warehouses according to accepted Illinois and government regulations.

Adoption of the special trade brand "Illini," which appeared on trade-marks on all the fruit shipped by the exchange, gave distinction and valuable advertising to the fruit shipped and a good name was made by the product in all markets where shipped.

Wide distribution of products is one of the big reasons attributed to the success of the exchange during 1922. Formerly it was the practice of the marketing of growers to consign to Chicago, causing a flooding of that market, and consequently low prices. With such a distribution system as was built up, fruit was kept away from Chicago, preventing that market from being flooded.

In one vicinity, the growers belonging to the local sold strawberries for a net average of $2.32 per crate while a large grower in the vicinity, not selling through the exchange, sold his product for $1.97, or 34 1/2 cents less per crate.

Many new locals are being organized in southern Illinois, and a most successful outlook for 1923 is apparent.

SYRACUSE SELECTED FOR BIG DAIRY SHOW

Farm Bureau Federation and Other Farm Organizations Are Given Much Credit.

Syracuse, N. Y., has been selected for the 1923 National Dairy show. This year it has been announced by W. R. Sparks, secretary of the show. The show will be held at the New York State Fair grounds, the week of October 6, commencing with the Western Dairy Congress. The board of directors and executive committee of the National Dairy association which was entrusted with the selection of the site for the big exposition, chose Syracuse after the qualifications of several eastern cities had been carefully considered.

Enos R. Lee, president of the New York State Farm Bureau federation, in expressing gratification that New York State had secured the show, pointed out that Syracuse was awarded the honor in competition with several larger cities chiefly because of the active interest of the Farm Bureau federation and other farm organizations of the state, the State College of Agriculture, and the State Fair commission.

The exposition, which is arranged under the auspices of the United States government, will be one of the biggest agricultural events of the year. Every dairy nation has been asked to send representatives and exhibits. The invitations sent out by President Harding several months ago have been accepted by Canada, England, Denmark, Italy, France, Belgium and other nations.

St. Paul Refunds $78,000.
Cash refunds of $78,322 are ready to hand back to patrons of the Central Co-operative Commission association at South St. Paul on its business for the year. Gross sales of the Central for 1922 were $21,756,804. A total of 15,371 cars were handled.

Line Heads Idaho.
George A. Line, Blackfoot, Idaho, is the new president of the Idaho Farm Bureau federation. C. B. Ross is secretary. Headquarters are at Pocatello.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

RADIO IS USED BY LEGION

Widespread Membership of Veterans' Organization Reached by National and State Officials.

The voice of the American Legion is being heard over the radio by members of the organization throughout the country. Almost daily some officer or Legion leader talks to the widespread membership of the veterans' association using the wireless telephone as the means of dissemination. This is made possible by the installation of hundreds of receiving sets in the homes of local Legion posts throughout the country.

In practically every post may be found some ex-service man who worked with the wireless telephone through the days of the war, or who has become an ardent fan since the broadcasting of regular programs came into vogue. Officers of the Legion recognize this fact and are taking advantage of the closer touch afforded them by means of the latest "miracle."

One of the first instances of this use by officers was the broadcasting of National Commander Alvin Owsley's "keynote speech" from Lincoln, Neb. This was heard by Legionnaires all over the country, some as far away as the Atlantic coast.

State department commanders in many instances are beginning to make use of this method to reach their members, many urging the installation of receiving sets for this purpose.

In the future further use of the radio is planned. The Decoration day address of Commander Owsley in San Francisco is to be sent out by a powerful station, so that Legionnaires in the West may hear the commander at this time. At Kansas City, Mo., when a new Legion house was dedicated, Commander Owsley's talk was heard by Legionnaires of five states, who were asked to "stand by" at special meetings to hear the Legion leader.

Followers of radio, who are active in the Legion, predict that within a short time all official utterances of national officers of the ex-service men's organization will be relayed by radio to the more than three-quarter of a million members throughout the United States. And because of the power of many of the broadcasting stations, Legionnaires in other cities may soon be "listening in" on what their comrades at home in the states are doing.

HASTEN HANDLING OF CLAIMS

Decentralization of Legion Service Work Will Be Carried Out on Joe Sparks' Plan.

Decentralization of service work undertaken by the American Legion will be carried out by the use of a plan put into effect by Joe Sparks, national chairman of the committee of the Legion. This plan, Mr. Sparks believes, will expedite the handling of claims referred to the Legion, and will draw quick action on the part of the veterans' bureau.

Under the new system, all claims coming to the attention of the national service division will be forwarded direct to the Legion department service office in the state in which the claim originates. Contact with the subdistrict offices of the United States veterans' bureau will be maintained by these offices, and the cases which have jurisdiction over the claims presented will be regularly visited. Any inattention or lack of co-operation by veterans' bureau heads will be reported to the national service division.

If for any reason a claim is not settled satisfactorily by the subdistrict office, the department head will refer to the liaison representative of the American Legion at the district office of the veterans' bureau. Files in the majority of the cases are in the office of the district in which the veteran lives.

COOKIES FOR DISABLED MEN

One Hundred and Thirty Auxiliary Units of Kansas Make Regular Delegations to Hospitals.

A cookie-jar containing 18,720 cookies should satisfy the most ravenous appetite.

That's the number of cookies prepared by members of the American Legion Auxiliary. Kansas for disabled veterans in hospitals at Kansas City and Leavenworth. There are 130 units of the Auxiliary in Kansas. Each unit prepares and mails 12 dozen cookies to the hospitals every month.

The cookies are sent to the chief dietitian of each hospital and she places them in big jars in the corridors. When the cookie jar is set out, the disabled men come from every ward, on crutches, in wheel chairs, and with canes rapping the floor, eager to get a hand in the jar.

Nurses say the boys reach around the jar until they find the cookies with nuts on them and fruit chopped up on the inside. The old-fashioned flat sugar cookies do not seem to be popular.

American Farm Bureau

Marguerite Martin is America's healthiest child. That was the judges' decision at the first national Boys' and Girls' Clubs congress held in Chicago a short time back. Marguerite is a fourteen-year-old Tennessee girl. She lives with her mother on a farm near Shepherd, Tenn., attends high school and wants to be a physical culture director. Her score was 96.5-10 out of a possible total of 100. Marguerite weighs 116 pounds, is 52.5-10 inches tall, has brown eyes and wears her hair bobbed. She wears her hair bobbed because she thinks it is graceful. She enjoys plenty of outdoor exercise, believes milk is a good beverage, eats only wholesome food, and abstains from too many sweets.

PLAN TO ERADICATE DREAD HOG DISEASE

Members of New Madrid (Mo.) County Farm Bureau Saved Much Money.

Hog cholera's eradication is one project of the New Madrid (Mo.) county farm bureau. It has been on the program of work for six years. In that time it has saved its members $314,876 by this one project. The loss to the farmers of this county every year due to the ravages of this disease was over $31,000 before the farm bureau was organized and began active work for the reduction of these losses. In the spring of 1923 the sixth annual survey was made and it revealed that the total loss to the farmers was only $20,502 in the last year.

In accomplishing this the New Madrid county bureau has been instrumental in reducing the number of farms reporting cholera from 157 in 1918 to 29 farms in 1923. In most of these cases the cholera was brought in by hogs shipped into the county and measures were taken immediately for its control.

In order to follow out the campaign in a systematic manner the New Madrid bureau sent out questionnaires to every farmer in the county each year to make a survey of the cholera conditions. In almost every instance these questionnaires were sent back to the bureau filled out with the necessary information.

In the sixth annual report sent out from the county the following facts are brought out: Number of farms reporting cholera April 1, 1918, 157; number reporting in 1923, 29; number reporting cholera during the year 1918, 183 in 1923; number of hogs lost from cholera, 12,440 in 1918, 2,574 in 1923; value of these hogs at 8 cents per pound, $31,520 in 1918, $20,502 in 1923; percentage of farmers who believe in vaccination, 60 per cent in 1918, 82 per cent in 1923.

These facts alone indicate the tremendous success of the New Madrid bureau in its campaign.

The actual savings to the members was computed at 8 cents a pound and does not take into consideration the high prices paid for hogs during the war period which would have practically doubled the savings.

In addition to the large decrease in cholera among the hogs, the pork production of the county has been built up through the efforts of the New Madrid bureau. A recent survey shows that there are approximately twice as many hogs in the county now as there was before the county farm bureau was organized.

MINNESOTA GROWS POTATOES

Leaders of Co-Operative Selling Agency Plan to Have Many Acres Under Contract.

One hundred thousand acres of potatoes under contract by July 15, is the goal of Minnesota leaders who are behind the movement to organize a co-operative marketing agency. This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee of 23, which appointed an executive committee composed of J. A. Monson of Abraham, Earl A. Barker of Bemidji, A. M. Dunton of Bagley, Marius Waldahl of Plummet and Walter Oby of Detroit, to have active charge of the details. S. G. Rubinow, who so successfully organized the Maine Potato Growers, will have charge of the campaign.

SONG OF LEGION AUXILIARY

"The Call of the Flag," Given to Organization by Author, Used in Americanism Campaign.

The patriotic appeal of the song, "The Call of the Flag," is to become one of the factors of the Americanism campaign which is being waged by the American Legion Auxiliary. This song, which has been adopted by the Auxiliary as its official composition, has a stirring air and possesses words which create a high enthusiasm among the hearers. The song was first heard by Legionnaires and Auxiliary members at the New Orleans convention, where it received the official endorsement of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Madge King Johnston, national vice-president and chairman of the Americanism committee of the Auxiliary, plans to make wide use of the official song in the work which is being undertaken by the Auxiliary along the lines of Americanism. The song is now being distributed by the national organization of the Auxiliary through its departments and local units. Recent popularization of the song has been assisted by broadcasting from various radio stations throughout the country, particularly on one patriotic holiday, when it was made a part of a special program.

Other ways of putting the composition before the public are being urged by Mrs. Johnston and through her efforts and those of other members of the committee, local units of the Auxiliary have received the endorsement of many civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations throughout the nation for the new song.

Mrs. L. D. Westfelt of New Orleans, who composed the song, turned over the plates, rights and arrangements for publication of future editions to the women of the Auxiliary. She advanced considerable money for the initial work, but freely gave this. Word has just been received by Mrs. Johnston from New Orleans telling of Mrs. Westfelt's death shortly after landing from a trip to Egypt and the Mediterranean sea.

A letter received by Mrs. Johnston told of her pleasure at returning home, and of her intense interest in the progress of the song. Mrs. Johnston, in a message to national headquarters of the Auxiliary says: "We will now feel that our work is a sacred obligation bequeathed to us in fulfilling her desires to aid the boys in this way."

The song may be obtained in sheet music form, orchestration, band arrangements and on player piano rolls. All rights to the composition have been relinquished by the composer to the Auxiliary.

FORD HOSPITAL DOORS OPEN

Detroit Institution to Admit Disabled War Veterans Who Are in Need of Attention.

A personal plan from Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, to Henry Ford has resulted in hospitalization for 300 disabled war veterans of Michigan.

Ford has agreed to throw open the doors of his big hospital in Detroit to every disabled ex-service man and woman in the state, following Commander Owsley's statement of the hopeless fight the Michigan veterans were making because the government failed to simplify the formal procedure through which applicants for hospitalization are forced to go and which has resulted in long delay in obtaining relief for the war fighters.

After hearing the Legion head's appeal, Mr. Ford immediately instructed the superintendent of the Henry Ford hospital to receive at once any man in need of hospital treatment who could produce proof of war service. The Ford hospital covers 20 acres in the heart of Detroit. It was used as United States general hospital No. 30 during and after the war.

Form Units of "Polar Bears."

Members of the detachment of American troops which served in Russia during the World war are forming units of the "Polar Bears." These men include a number of prominent Legionnaires who were on duty in the frozen north while their comrades were in France. They find much to talk about, according to reports of their meetings. Hard back at $10, cigarettes at $2.50 a package, nights in "bup" tents with the thermometer flirting around 50 below—these are among the topics of the former members of the A. E. F. in Russia. Units of the organization have been formed in Chicago and in Detroit.

Curwensville's Own Column

Ye writer made a slight misstatement when he sent Miss Myrtle Daub to Lock Haven Normal. Her father informed us yesterday that she went to Shippensburg to attend a college there.

Miss Marjorie Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wall, South Thompson street, left yesterday morning for Lock Haven and will enter as a student at the Normal school.

Master Gray McKenrick, whose home is at Warren, Ohio, is visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hips, South Filbert street.

The body of Wilbur Robinson arrived in Curwensville yesterday shortly after the noon hour and was taken to the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Fox, on North Filbert street, where it lay in state for several hours to be viewed by his old friends and acquaintances. His death occurred at his Pittsburgh home last Saturday, after a prolonged illness of cancer of the stomach, which was the primary cause of his demise. His age was about 57 years. He was the only son of Wilbur Robinson who died in 1909 and Clara R. (Bloom) Robinson, and was born and partially reared in this town. His mother married the second time, Richard Evans becoming her husband. Those who survive him are his mother, wife and five or six children and his sister, Mrs. Alice Wagoner, who resides at Irvona. "Bum" Robinson, as he was universally called by his boy friends, was a jovial well met fellow and had many friends in Curwensville, Clearfield and DuBois, who are sorry of his early demise. He was a nephew of Frank L. Robinson of this place. Interment of the body was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

During our time in life we have heard many bands, in fact during our earlier career tramped around over the country with one for more than ten years, but we must say that for the number of instruments in the Tall Cedar band from Ebensburg, which discoursed music on the street yesterday, we never heard one equal to it. Their music was high class stuff, rendered in a professional manner and the notes sweet to the ear. That band is a cracker jack and no mistake about it either.

Pardon Board Sits Under New Code For Three Day Session; Have 100 Cases

Harrisburg, June 20.—The State Board of Pardons met today under the reorganization code with the largest calendar in its history. The board was expected to sit three days to dispose of more than one hundred cases brought before it this month.

The pardons board becomes attached to the Department of Justice under the code and details were being arranged to transfer this function bodily from the Secretary of the Commonwealth offices.

Mrs. Harvey Graham, who resides in Curwensville with her husband who was a telephone operator, removing to Lumber City a few years ago fell in her home last Saturday and dislocated one of her hips. She was taken to Clearfield hospital on Sunday for medical treatment and bone adjustment.

Jack Gray, a former mine foreman at one of the mines in this vicinity, but removing to Clearfield about a year ago, was in Curwensville yesterday and became a member of Keystone Forest. Tall Cedars. Jack, like Zachary of old, is not very tall in stature, but he had the pep and spring in him to reach the tip top of the tree.

We noticed the familiar phiz of our old friend Ash Woolridge in town yesterday, he having come over from Woodland to be roped and hog tied and laid away in the forest of the new Tall Cedar camp which was instituted yesterday. Ash is proud of the fact that it was in Curwensville that he received the bulk of his early education, having been a student at the Normal School held here in the early seventies.

The work on the third floor of the Norris-Thompson-Wolf block has been about completed and the two large former lodge rooms converted into four nobby, little and convenient flats.

Miss Grace Smiley, who was one of the party in that auto wreck near Mineral Springs a few days ago, and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Fleming Monday, left yesterday for Clairton to take up her studies at the Normal. Her father, who was seriously injured is reported as getting along as nicely as can be expected.

The Last $100,000 Of Dempsey Guarantee Fund Due Tomorrow

Great Falls, Mont. June 20.—The Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Shelby on July 4th is getting to be a national institution.

Montana oil men were the first backers to extract great funds of coin from their bank accounts to assure the State that the July bout would be held here. Then the bankers came across. Now the railroads are getting ready to shell out. $100,000 to meet the final figure of the $300,000 purse guaranteed to Jack Dempsey is to be raised and deposited in the bank to the credit of the champion today or tomorrow. Officials of the Great Northern Railroad, it is reported are active on the drive for this $100,000. The Railroad, as a company cannot by law put up the money for such a purpose, but individuals of the company will advance the funds and lend it the moral support of the Great Northern name.

For Discolored Floors.
Scatter dry, clean sand over the floor and sprinkle over this a solution made by dissolving one pound of potash or pearl ash in a pint of water; scrub the boards thoroughly with a hard brush, using very hot water and plenty of soap, change the hot water frequently and wipe dry as you proceed. This potash, it used as directed, will take out all stains and is the very best means of whitening boards.

In Quigness.
There comes a time when all efforts of our own, seems vain; when whatever we do seems to work harm. Or we are fretted by the crowd of duties which press upon us so we cannot cope with them, and threaten to overwhelm us. Let us leave them all for a little while and sit still. With the quiet will come refreshment and renewed energy. Sometimes not doing but waiting is our duty.

MADGE BELLAMY "FOUND ON BROADWAY BY THOMAS INCE"

Madge Bellamy, the pretty little maid who plays Peggy Fairfax in "The Hottentot" at the Driggs theatre tonight, was "discovered" for the screen by Thomas H. Ince while she was playing on the New York stage.

Miss Bellamy, although she is only nineteen years old, has appeared successfully in eight Ince productions. She began her stage career when she was fourteen. Her work as "Nan" in "Hail the Woman" won her such applause that she was starred in Maurice Tourneur's "Lorna Doone." She is particularly charming in this racing comedy as the heroine for whom a chap who is desperately afraid of horses overcomes his fear and rides to victory in an exciting steeplechase.

SAWDUST PRODUCTS PLANT BURNS

Philadelphia, June 20.—The plant of the Sweepers Manufacturing Company, makers of sawdust products, was swept by an $80,000 fire today. Four firemen were overcome by smoke when they were trapped by flames in the upper floor of the building.

AGED IRVONA WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Mary Smeal, widow of the late Vincent Smeal, died at her home in Irvona last evening after an extended illness, the result of heart trouble. She is survived by several sons and daughters.

Wholesome Retribution.
"I hear they are going to close up the saloons in Clearfield," "Yes," exclaimed Tarantula Tim. "The licker has been getting poorer every year and us citizens is willing to go without for awhile for the sake of punishin' the bartenders."

Mt. Etna Cooling Off A Little; Believe Worst Is Over In Region Laid Low

Catania, Sicily, June 20.—The destructive pace of molten lava flowing from 12 craters of Mt. Etna decreased today. Two more tiny townships have been completely swept from the face of the earth by the fiery streams. During the night the railroad station at Castiglione was submerged but hopes were entertained that more important cities might be spared.

The town of Giarre, which has 26,000 inhabitants has been completely evacuated, only the militia remaining. Unless fresh explosions and eruptions occur, it is believed the worst may be over. The lava is forming a crust and advancing more and more slowly.

LEAVY AVENUE PAVING BEGUN

Borough forces have begun the work of excavating for the paving of Leavy Avenue between Second and Third streets. This block will be paved with concrete, the roadway will be 20 feet in width and the property owners will pay two thirds of the cost of the improvement.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Kidney disease is too dangerous to neglect. At the first sign of back ache, headache, dizziness or urinary disorders, you should give the weak and kidneys prompt attention. Lighten the diet, take things easier and use a reliable kidney tonic. There is no other kidney medicine so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. Irvona people rely on them here's one of the many statements from Clearfield people:
Mrs. Mary C. Passmore, 419 W. Front St., Clearfield, says: "I have suffered off and on for a good many years with kidney trouble. When an attack has come on my back has been lame and sore and I have had earing down pains across my kidneys. My kidneys acted too frequently and I had nervous spells. I used Doan's Kidney Pills at such times and they always eased the aches through my back and head, regulated my kidneys and removed the nervous and dizzy spells."

Plans Of The Railroads For Greater Public Service

The Hall Mark

"Anticipating the greatest volume of freight traffic in their history this year, the railroads have adopted a concerted policy and intensive working program to enable them to meet the growing transportation needs of the country.

"In full realization of necessity for the greatest improvement and expansion possible of the country's transportation facilities to meet the growing demands of commerce, the railroads have authorized, since January 1, 1922, for cars, locomotives, trackage and other facilities, the expenditure of $1,540,000,000, of which $440,000,000 actually was expended during 1922.

"The railroads are raising this enormous amount of additional capital largely through borrowed money on the abiding faith in the fairness of the American people, and reliance on continuance of the policy announced in the Transportation Act of 1920, as a measure of reasonable protection to investment in railroad property.

"From January 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, the railroads purchased 223,616 new freight cars. Of these, 117,280 have been delivered and put in service. The railroads during that time also purchased 4,219 new locomotives. Of that number 2,106 have already been placed in service.

"The railroads confidently look forward to the successful movement of the largest volume of traffic in the history of the country and pledge their best efforts to that end."

—From a joint statement by the Association of Railway Executives and the American Railway Association.

WHAT YOUR FRIENDSHIP MEANS

We want your friendly co-operation. It means much to the railroads, equally as much to the public. Our interests are identical, with a common purpose working towards a common end—the best possible transportation service.

FREE STATE NOW ON ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Collapse of the Republican Movement Has Resulted in a Stable Government—Irish Paying Taxes

By CHARLES M. McCANN (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Copyright, 1923, by United Press

Dublin, June 20 (United Press).—Ireland at last faces an era of peace, and Irishmen, official and unofficial, believe that the Free State is already on the road to prosperity.

After seven years of successive rebellion, trouble and civil war, the problems of the country are those of ordinary government—finance and economics.

Eighteen months ago there was no government in southern Ireland. A year ago there was a vicious civil war.

Today the Republican movement has collapsed, and a stable, able Irish government is planning the country's future.

"During the last year," President Cosgrave said recently, "we had to build up an army, mobilizing a police organization and construct the fabric of a government."

"When we took up the business of government there was little but a local government department and an army headquarters."

"Now, if the people change the government the machine is there. Whether the new government is a capital or labor one, or a combination of the two, the machine is there—one that will be loyal to whatever government the people of the country elect."

The government, its machinery established, has begun to face its difficulties, and to balance its assets against its liabilities.

There Are Many Unemployed.

There are tens of thousands of unemployed men and women. There are 15,000 Republican prisoners in Irish jails. There is an over-large army, whose surplus must be assimilated into civil life. All these classes of men and women must be absorbed back into industry.

There is a prospective deficit of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 in the budget for the current fiscal year. A loan of $125,000,000 must be floated shortly. Rebuilding must be begun after the years of destruction of houses, factories and railways.

These are some of the difficulties. On the opposite side of the ledger may be cited some of the brighter aspects of the situation as Irishmen here see them.

The budget deficit is caused by the past necessity of a big army, and by the payment of compensation for destruction of private property. Rebuilding is expected to start immediately, and will help absorb soldiers, police and unemployed. Only 60 per cent of arable land is under cultivation, and steps which are already being taken to increase this percentage will increase employment. When bills are paid, Ireland will be practically without debt.

THE IRISH PAYING TAXES

But the most encouraging feature of the whole present situation is that Irishmen for the first time in their lives are willingly, even gladly paying taxes.

According to Free State officials, 70 per cent of taxes is being collected. Of between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 of arrears of taxes, about $15,000,000 have been collected since the Free State started to function.

As to the loan to be floated, the government hopes to place every dollar of it in Ireland itself. It will be used partly toward paying for the private property destroyed—the total bill for destruction has been estimated at from $125,000,000 to $200,000,000. When this compensation has been paid the loan itself will be almost Ireland's sole indebtedness—$125,000,000 for a nation of over 4,000,000 people.

HARDING OFF FOR CROSS NATION TRIP ARMED WITH SPEECHES OUTLINING THE RECORD OF HIS FIRST ADMINISTRATION

Washington, June 20.—President Harding left Washington today prepared, after a week's intensive preparation, to give to the country while en route to Alaska an account of his administration.

In reviewing the record, Mr. Harding will outline problems that must be met and his policies for meeting them. While he disclaims any political significance in this tour, he has prepared speeches on several of the big issues of 1924, including transportation problems, the wet and dry issue, difficulties of the farmer, taxes and the tariff.

Until almost train time, the President continued to work on the first batch of speeches he will deliver on his swing through the west. Beginning at St. Louis tomorrow night with a speech on the World Court, he will end his outbound speaking trip on July 5 at Tacoma, Wash., where he boards the navy transport "Henderson" for Alaska.

ERWIN BERGDOLL IS RE-ARRESTED AS HE LEAVES PEN

Leavenworth, Kan., June 20.—Erwin Bergdoll, brother of the wealthy slayer Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, was re-arrested, charged with conspiracy to evade the draft, as he stepped from the federal penitentiary here today.

Bergdoll, plainly showing the effects of his long confinement, was released from prison shortly before twelve o'clock after serving three years for evading the draft laws.

A United States Marshall, armed with a warrant charging conspiracy with three men in Philadelphia to escape the draft, was waiting as the big gates of the prison ground swung open. The party started to Kansas City where Bergdoll will be arraigned.

SECRETARY GORDON OF THE STATE GAME COMMISSION HERE

Secretary Seth E. Gordon, the energetic and capable Secretary of the State Game Commission in company with Messrs W. G. Conklin and J. B. Turman, attaches of the Commission, were in Clearfield today enroute back to Harrisburg after a tour through the mountain district which was swept by fire during the big fires the latter part of May and first of June. The gentlemen were accompanied by State Game Protectors W. C. Kelley, of DuBois and W. J. Davis, of Clearfield, who were on the job fighting the fires and had first hand information on the burned area.

Secretary Gordon felt very badly over the apparent destruction of the forests and the undoubted loss of game, and said this outbreak simply demonstrated the need for more stringent safeguarding against forest fires, although both the game and forestry departments had used every precaution at hand against just what occurred. He further said the great need was to get fresh men quickly to the scene to reinforce the tired out fire fighters and said something surely would have to be done toward improving the roads into the State forests.

The Secretary in closing a brief talk with the writer said he thought the Penfield road was the worst public road into a State forest he knew of in the State and was a great drawback at all times of emergency such as we had just passed through.

W. C. T. U. DRY FUND TO BE IN HANDS OF GOVERNOR ALONE

Harrisburg, Pa., June 20.—Governor Pinchot will have exclusive jurisdiction over the $250,000 law enforcement fund to be raised by the W. C. T. U., according to a statement today by Mrs. Marion, Treasurer and Custodian.

"Every penny of the fund will be placed in a depository subject to the legal disposal of the Governor as he may arrange for the reinforcement of the regularly constituted police power of the state," said Mrs. Marion. "Her statement was issued to counteract the misapprehension concerning the purpose and disposal of the funds, it was explained. 'There has never been a thought or suggestion of using a penny of the $250,000 fund the women are raising,' it was explained. The statement adds 'In the employment of external means, men, measures or force.'"

Pocahontas, Ark., June 20.—Four Catholic priests are in a serious condition today as a result of bullet wounds received when a band of youths attacked the home of Rev. Father Herlinger, Priest of the Engelberg Catholic church.

Mr. Thompson, a Democrat, was first appointed by President Wilson in 1920, reappointed in 1921 by President Harding, who now extends his commission for another term.

Million-Dollar Oil Blaze

A more whim of the wind prevented the burning oil which swept into the Allegheny River during a $1,000,000 oil blaze at Pittsburgh from destroying one of the main bridges connecting Pittsburgh with the north side industrial section. After a stubborn 30-hour fight, the fire, which was started by lightning, was finally put under control.

DRY WEATHER WILL CUT LUTHERSBURG STRAWBERRY CROP

Only Good Rain Within Next Few Days Will Save Heavy Investment of Growers of Region.

NOT DEVELOPING

Disappointment is rampant in the Luthersburg strawberry section because of the present condition of the harvest and the prospects that the late winter anticipations of a monster crop will be seriously smashed.

Out in the fields and beds where hundreds of pickers were at work at this season of other years, there are few pickers busy today. There are few berries. The lack of rain at the critical period in the development of the berries, is the cause for the woeful lack of fruit at this season.

Until two or three weeks ago there were many indications of a strawberry harvest in the Taylorsville neighborhood that would almost double that of the best previous years. Many new beds were set out in time for production this season and during the winter and early spring, the experts made a careful survey of their conditions and let it be known that they expected to ship 20 to 30 carloads of berries.

Three months ago the strawberry growers' association sent an agent into the Pittsburgh market and arranged for sales of the Luthersburg produce direct to the city wholesalers and plans were completed for a big season.

Through the spring season the plants developed naturally, and there were plenty of blossoms, strengthening the anticipations of a big season. But the weather man stepped in at the critical moment, or possibly he stepped out, for there has been a lack of rain in the past three weeks, during which the berries themselves are growing and ripening, and the result is that the fruit is scarce, the development small and the ripening slow.

Some of the bigger growers have erected their boxing sheds and expect to reap a few crates, but others have about given up hope of making a big thing of their strawberries this season and are content to take off just what berries may come. One grower who produced 20 to 30 crates during the height of the season last year, picked one crate yesterday and had to "squeeze" his patch to do that.

Others are not getting one quarter as many as they got at this season other years. There is no estimate available at this time as to how nearly normal a crop the harvest will reach, because there is a possibility that rain immediately would help some in the development and ripening.

TALL CEDAR FOREST NO. 93 WAS INSTITUTED AT CURWENSVILLE YESTERDAY WITH BIG DAY OF FESTIVITY AND FELLOWSHIP

Curwensville, Pa., June 19, 1923. Curwensville was a busy place yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the institution of Keystone Forest No. 93, Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

The big delegation from Mountain Forest, Lebanon, headed by the Tall Cedar Band, arrived early in the afternoon and kept things humming until the time set for the ceremonial at the Opera House.

At the ceremonial the Curwensville Forest was duly instituted and Grand Tall Cedar George L. Benner, Senior Deputy C. H. Ammerman, Junior Deputy J. Emmett Harder, Scribe, Philip H. Thompson, Treasurer, Meritt A. Callwell were inducted into office and will rule over Keystone Forest for the balance of the year.

Following the installation on hundred "saplings" were taken in tow and given the pruning, cultivation and other treatment necessary to fit them to be Tall Cedars. A few were found to be in need of special attention and on these the carpenters labored until the hour of five thirty.

The parade after the ceremonial was an impressive sight, there being one hundred and seventy-five Tall Cedars in line, each wearing the natty pyramid of a Tall Cedar. Again the Tall Cedar band was brought into play and furnished spirited marching music for the parade which wound up at the lawn of the Presbyterian church where a wonderful dinner was served by the ladies of that congregation. The day came to a perfect end with a concert on the lawn by the Curwensville band.

Keystone Forest starts out with one hundred members and is destined to be eminently successful under the officership of the men chosen. Tall Cedarism has a mission to perform in bringing good cheer and fellowship among men and since Keystone Forest is so centrally located in the country it will not be surprising to see it have five hundred members within five years.

One Killed, Several Are Injured, in Savannah, Ga. Riot In Effort To Lynch

Savannah, Ga., June 20.—Savannah was quiet today following a riot during which one man was killed and several injured in an attempt to storm the jail in which Walter Lee, a negro, was imprisoned. Lee was accused of attacking a white girl but protested his innocence.

Sherriff Merritt Dixon called on military authorities for assistance when a mob of 2,000 persons swarmed about the jail intent on lynching the negro. Shortly after the military control arrived one section of the group became threatening and a volley was fired over their heads. O. U. Parker, Jr., one of the crowd, was killed and several injured in subsequent shooting.

Sound Investments- And The Opposite

An address made before the Clearfield Commercial Club, by Frederick Carles of Harper & Turner, Philadelphia.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

It is customary for a person who is in the position that I am now to make his remarks interesting by the relation of jokes and more or less humorous stories. I am at that disadvantage of having been asked to speak on a serious subject, and while in the business of investing money, as in all departments of human effort, there are amusing incidents, the larger number of our stories are not funny and there is no pleasure in relating them.

The subject of my talk is to be "Sound Investment versus the Opposite," with the application of your slogan "See Your Banker." If it is agreeable, I shall reverse the order.

Your banker is a merchant, dealing in money and credits, which is a business requiring a more intimate knowledge of the community he serves and the people who live there than many may suspect. He has before him at all times the problem of financing deserving local business and yet he must be prepared, on short notice and perhaps no notice at all, to return to his depositor who own the money he has loaned for the uses of business and trade. He makes this possible through the study of the averages of demand and supply and protect himself by the establishment of what are called reserves, and a position of these reserves are represented by investments. Your banker, consequently must, to be successful, have a working knowledge of the principles of sound investment just the same as he must keep before him for the good of his bank, the best interests of the people of his community. Generally speaking he knows more about you than you may think, and can, without doubt, give a very close estimate of the kind of investment that it would be proper for you to make, if it is right for you to make investment at all.

You should remember, however, that your banker is probably a very busy man whose time is taken up with the management of the bank. To follow the progress of the many corporations having securities in the ownership of individuals requires much time. In fact it is a specialized job, and it would be quite unusual if your banker were able, in an off-hand way, to give an opinion which he could support on the majority of securities which are bought and sold in fair volume almost every business day, or on securities of very recent issue. If you should ask your banker about securities in which his institution has made investment, he should be well able to advise. So that, in fairness to him, when asking your banker for advice on investment subjects you should either allow him sufficient time for inquiry, or expect that he will offer you the same advice that Punch did to young people about to marry—DON'T.

There are three classes of people who invariably lose money through what are called "bad investments": The avaricious, who hope to derive large profits from small risks; the impulsive, who rush into deals without due thought or investigation; and the glib, who accept all sorts of glowing promises and guarantees from strangers without reservation. These people are open game for confidence men and other crooks, and I do not know of any way in which they can be protected except by the strict enforcement of the laws, and there have been laws prohibiting such things as the exploitation of these people for thousands of years. They will not be advised—in fact experience shows that they seldom talk about their ventures until after their losses are evident.

One way in which these people are defrauded is through the sale to them of what are called "stocks." The certificate is merely the medium. Those who sell these certificates are not bankers, or, in fact, business people; they are confidence men using in combination the progress of science with the record of successful industry. I can easily remember, within my own experience, how these people have exploited the successes of others in the mining of gold and other precious metals, gems, by advertising and distributing stocks of their own so-called corporations during a period when established enterprises were doing well and being talked about. They follow the progress of the times: About 25 years ago, when the wireless telegraph was a new thing, the country was flooded with the stocks of companies which, it was said, would do business in the transmission of intelligence. At about the same time the chemists were experimenting with liquid air and that was well capitalized. So it was with many things up to recent years during which it has been chiefly natural gas and oil, automobiles and accessories, chain stores and so forth. In fact, in all of the various departments of industry in which there have been notable successes. The people who sell stocks of these types are usually working in violation of the criminal laws, hiding under the known respectability of the investment banker. If later on there should come some easier way of separating a fool from his money, they will no doubt adopt it, although, perhaps, we shall always have with us, in some form, the fakir of stocks.

During the past three years you have read of the failure of many bucket shops. The bucket shop makes its appeal to the avaricious—to the person who wants all profits and no losses, and bucket shops invariably go down in rising markets, when their customers' profits are in sight. While the operators of bucket shops have a knowledge of the principles of brokerage, and call themselves brokers, they are really gamblers taking what seems to be the safe end of a bet. Their victims have no one to blame but themselves, because it will be evident to anybody that any organization that advertises to do business in stock exchange stocks without holding membership on the exchange, is advertising its desire to do business at a loss and that ought to be warning enough for anyone. But I am sorry to have to say all of the failures which you may have read about were not the failures of bucket shops. In business in the aggregate, the proportion of misfortune maintains its ratio to the volume of business done and some part of that proportion of failure extends to the several departments of banking. You sometimes read of the breakdown of an established banking house just the same as you hear of the fall of a bank or well regarded industry. That is one of the hazards of business, and so long as we go on under the present scheme of things, we shall surely have some proportion of failure in legitimate business. But it is extremely seldom that you hear of losses by people who have been doing a conservative business through the failure of their investment banker. Speculators may lose; that is a chance they take. Investors who buy and pay for investments seldom go unprotected.

Impulsive and glib people have lost money through the attempt to finance new enterprise—promotion. Capital is an essential to the promotion of invention and discovery, but what very few people seem to realize is the fact that there is always plenty of ready capital for the good things. Consequently those whose financing they take part in are in an undesired class at the start. Securities of promotions are, in large part, sold to the public for reasons of questionable merit, or because the owner of an invention or discovery places his selling price too high.

The earmarks of a promotion are the references to such successes as the telephone, the air-brake, the Ford motor, Standard Oil, Coco Cola, and so forth. You will be quite safe if you will refuse to buy the security of any company whose prospectus quotes the large profits made by original subscribers to the stocks of these companies, unless it also quotes the losses made by others who bought stocks of companies formed to do the same kind of business during the same period.

But misfortune in promotion enterprises is not confined to losses through the purchase of stocks. For instance, 15 years or so ago effort was made to colonize the desert areas of the northwestern states. The scheme was to irrigate the land and farm it. The idea was good but the execution was awful! Campaigns for the sale of bonds secured upon these to-be-irrigated territories were very comprehensive and hundreds of thousands of people bought the bonds. Some of the properties worked out all right and the bonds became good investments, but the large majority failed and those who owned the bonds lost their money. So likewise have there been poorly conceived railroads and trolley lines as well as business enterprises of various kinds in which capital has been dissipated.

The recognized business of dealing

in investments is divided into two chief departments, investment banking and brokerage, and while it might have been easily possible to buy stuff of the classes that I have discussed through a brokerage department, it would be almost impossible to get it through any fairly conservative investment banking organization. They would not and could not afford to handle it. This works down to nothing else than, for safety, to do your investment business with a conservative investment house. Out of the great volume of advertising it would be very hard, without any other guide, to select a conservative house, and for this purpose I return to your slogan: See Your Banker.

Perhaps you would like to know how desirable investments are produced. I mean, now, the kind your banker might buy. To make explanation easy, let us suppose that a nearby manufacturer wants to branch out and sell his products in a wider territory. To do this he will need a larger plant, new machinery, more raw material, more workmen and clerks and more working capital—say that it will require five million dollars to cover everything, and application is made to an investment house for a loan to that amount. The processes are, first to determine the wisdom of the idea; to check the quality of the goods this manufacturer makes and to be sure that there is good and permanent demand for them; to verify his integrity as a business man and to establish not only his ability to repay the loan at the right time, but also to establish his willingness to repay it. After that has been done, specialists are called in. Engineers or others specializing in the values of large business properties value the fixed assets of this business for the purpose of determining that, in a going business, its properties represent good and ample mortgage security for the sum of money the business wishes to borrow. Public accountants certify to the amount of business, expressed in dollars, that has been done during past years, the object being to be sure that the business, as it was, can comfortably earn more than the interest and other charges on the new money; even though the new department may be unproductive. Lawyers look into the records and documents for the purpose of knowing that the loan, if made, will be legal and binding in all its details. All these things being satisfactory, the loan is adjusted to an issue of bonds and you are given the opportunity to make investment in them.

ing of the late fruit, but the fact remains that there are sure to be heavy losses in the end of the season. Many of the growers are already looking forward to next season. They feel that, had the season not been so dry this year, their enterprises would have netted them nice financial gains where they had failed in other years because of poor sales arrangements, and that now with better plans worked out for the disposal of their products normal growing seasons will bring returns that merit their intensifying efforts for next year.—(DuBois Express.)

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S.S.S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-boils. Fighting-boils destroys impurities. It fights boils, it fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes: "I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

FLOWING GOLD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray is the enemy of Henry Nelson of Dallas. Gray falls in love with Barbara Jackson, daughter of Tom Parker, who informs Tom that Gray has been dishonorably discharged from the army. Gray is friendly with Gus Briskow, who strikes oil, and the daughter, Alice, and son, Bud. Both think Gray is a hero. Gray and Briskow buy enough stock in the bank where Nelson's father is president to give Briskow control of the bank. Gray and Briskow attend a meeting of the bank's directors. Gray shows the stock which has been bought by Briskow and himself.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Henry made his way to his father's side; they withdrew to a corner and lent their heads together, murmuring inaudibly. Gray watched them with unblinking intensity; he nodded to Buddy Briskow, and the latter, as if heeding some prearranged signal, removed his hands from his pockets and stepped farther into the room. He, too, watched the agitated pair.

"Why—look here!" the secretary gasped, after a moment or two. "This—this gives you control!"

Bell Nelson raised a stricken face. "Control?" he repeated, faintly. "Control?" He strode to the end of the table, and with shaking hands he ran through the sheet of neatly folded certificates. "Sold out, by God!" He fell to cursing certain men, the names of whom caused Swope and Murphy and Gage to prick up their ears.

Gray was still staring at the junior Nelson; it was to him more than to the father he spoke: "Sold out is right! It came high, but I think it was worth the price. We intend to vote our stock."

"By that I infer that you're going to take the bank over—take its management away from Bell and Henry?" Bennett Swope ventured.

"Naturally."

The older Nelson voiced an unintelligible exclamation. "That's a pretty rough deal. Bell has put his life into it. It is an—an institution, a credit to the community. It would be a misfortune if it fell into the hands of—into the control of somebody who—". The ranchman hesitated, then blurted forth, angrily: "Well, I don't like the look of this thing. I want to know what it means."

"I'll tell you," Henry cried, unflinchingly. "I'll tell you what it means. Reputational. Reputational! Hatred! I quarreled with this man, in France. He's vindictive; he followed me here—tried every way to ruin me—cost me thousands, hundreds of thousands of dollars. Father and I were—we were plucked. We had to realize some quick money to protect our holdings—officers and the like—and we sold a lot of our stock with the understanding that we could—that we would buy it back at a higher figure. We only borrowed on it, you might say—hypothecated it. We thought we were dealing with friends, but—Friends! My God! The speaker scowled his head.

"The stock was not hypothecated. You sold it," Gray said, quietly, "and we bought it in."

"It is all a personal matter, a grudge."

"Is that true, Mr. Gray?" Swope inquired.

"Substantially. But I'm waiting for Colonel Nelson to tell you more;

to tell you the whole story of our antagonism."

Martin Murphy, who had been a silent onlooker up to this point, made himself heard. "Mr. Gray, I don't like the look of this any better than Swope does. You say you paid high for your stock; do you intend to wreck the institution, lose a fortune—"

"I had ventured to hope that you three gentlemen would remain on the board."

"He doesn't want the bank," Henry Nelson exclaimed, hoarsely. "That's all a bluff. He wants his price. How much, Gray? What'll it cost us?"

"Oh, there is a price for everything! Mine will surprise you, however, it is so low. Can't you guess what it is?" The speaker's intent gaze had never left Henry Nelson's face; he was fixed there now, as cold, as relentless as the stare of a python.

Bell Nelson leaned forward, his lips parted, a new eagerness came into his purple countenance. "Well,

"Why—look here!" the secretary gasped, after a moment or two. "This—this gives you control!"

"I'll tell you," Henry cried, unflinchingly. "I'll tell you what it means. Reputational. Reputational! Hatred! I quarreled with this man, in France. He's vindictive; he followed me here—tried every way to ruin me—cost me thousands, hundreds of thousands of dollars. Father and I were—we were plucked. We had to realize some quick money to protect our holdings—officers and the like—and we sold a lot of our stock with the understanding that we could—that we would buy it back at a higher figure. We only borrowed on it, you might say—hypothecated it. We thought we were dealing with friends, but—Friends! My God! The speaker scowled his head.

"The stock was not hypothecated. You sold it," Gray said, quietly, "and we bought it in."

"It is all a personal matter, a grudge."

"Is that true, Mr. Gray?" Swope inquired.

"Substantially. But I'm waiting for Colonel Nelson to tell you more;

to tell you the whole story of our antagonism."

Martin Murphy, who had been a silent onlooker up to this point, made himself heard. "Mr. Gray, I don't like the look of this any better than Swope does. You say you paid high for your stock; do you intend to wreck the institution, lose a fortune—"

"I had ventured to hope that you three gentlemen would remain on the board."

"He doesn't want the bank," Henry Nelson exclaimed, hoarsely. "That's all a bluff. He wants his price. How much, Gray? What'll it cost us?"

"Oh, there is a price for everything! Mine will surprise you, however, it is so low. Can't you guess what it is?" The speaker's intent gaze had never left Henry Nelson's face; he was fixed there now, as cold, as relentless as the stare of a python.

ing!" Bell loudly declared. "I think we'd better go," someone said. "This is extraordinary—We're in no frame of mind to go ahead—"

"I must insist that you remain long enough to hear me out. You have no right to refuse. There is something you must be told."

"I'll admit I'm curious to know what the devil it all means," Murphy, the lumberman, confessed; "but I don't know that I should accept an explanation from you. We after Henry's accusations, I've known him and Bell for years—"

"I respect your friendship for them, and I shouldn't expect you to put trust in my words. It seems to me, however, that you owe it to that friendship to hear me. This incident has taken a turn wholly unexpected, and I must confess to expecting a different outcome—"

"I looked for a different outcome—hoped to be able to force an explanation—"

The speaker shook his head and frowned again, perplexedly. When, after a moment of indecisive murmuring, the three directors seated themselves, Gray thanked them with a bow. "I'll be as brief as possible, and if you don't mind I'll stand as I talk. I'm in no mood to sit. I'll have to go back a bit—"

It was several seconds before he resumed.

"When it became evident that the United States was going to war, I managed to get in at Plattsburg and took the officers' training course. It was easy for me to complete that course, because I had served in the Spanish War and had kept up my interest in military affairs. Something convinced those who ought to know that I was qualified for an appointment in the country—wide business experience at home and abroad, a knowledge of languages—"

"I was called to Washington. There I met Henry Nelson—a valuable man, too, in his way. We got acquainted at the same time and engaged in the same work—military intelligence. I didn't like the job, but it was considered important, and naturally I couldn't pick and choose. Of course it was secret, confidential work. No need of going into that here."

"Nelson's and my duties were identical, our authority was equal; we were ordered to work hand in hand, and although we were confidential together, technically, he outranked me owing to the fact that he was given his commission a moment before I got mine."

"When we arrived in France I tackled my job with all the energy I had; I tried for results. Nelson, I discovered in time, was concerned only in taking entire credit for all that he and I had accomplished, and in advancing himself. I worked; he played politics."

"I rebelled. I had to, or be made ridiculous. I warned him, privately, man to man. He, however, the warning. I then prepared a complete report, showing by the copies of his orders, by the records of our correspondence, how he had systematically and maliciously endeavored to nullify my work and add the like. It was not a pretty report to read. I turned it in to him for submission higher up."

"Then it was that he outgeneraled me. He was furious, of course, but he apologized—sincerely. He said that he had been wrong; that he had imposed upon me. He promised to play fair if I'd permit him to withdraw the report, and I was deceived."

"For a while we worked in harmony. I became engaged in an intricate case, having to do with a leak concerning transport sailings and routes—a matter involving the lives of thousands of boys—millions of dollars in supplies, and I went to Brest, under cover. It had to be handled with extreme care—some danger about it, too. A very interesting case, I assure you. I lived in a house with some of the people under surveillance. One of them was a woman, extremely attractive—thoroughly unscrupulous. My avenue of approach was through her; Nelson, of course, knew what I was doing; he was about the only one who did."

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

By a recent amendment of the Pennsylvania law that establishes the legal weights of commodities for the state, the respective bushel weights of apples and barley have been increased, and those for cranberries, cucumbers, unshelled green peas, tomatoes and turnips decreased.

The greatest reduction was made in the case of unshelled green peas, from 56 to 28 pounds.

The state department of agriculture publishes the following handy reference table of legal bushel weights now in force in Pennsylvania:

Warren Harding is no different from the rest of us when he starts out on a trip. One day out and he sells his newspaper. If he is like the rest of us he will be lucky to own his trousers by the time he gets home.

Do you ever stop to think how nice it is to live in such a community as Clearfield is; where practically everybody knows each other by their first name, and where party and creed has not been permitted to form a barrier? A lot of people are going to think pretty hard before they permit anybody to interfere with such a happy and desirable condition, particularly the stranger who comes among us bearing nothing but prejudices and whisperings born of ignorance and fostered by avarice.

Look over the report of the Children's Aid Society, which conducts the so-called Children's Home on Old Town Road. Only a very small percentage of our citizens know anything about the magnitude of the task that confronts the officers of the institution. Fortunately it is, that children have such a home to be sent to, and happy indeed are those who have their homes there. Look over this report, ask questions about it and learn what you can do to help. There is work for all.

To some people the immediate arrest of Erwin Bergdoll when he was released from prison today on charges similar to those on which he was imprisoned, may appear to be persecution. To our mind it is entirely fitting. Some other man filled Bergdoll's place on the firing line. Perhaps that substitute is now in his grave or wasting away from wounds and diseases contracted in the service. Sympathy and sentiment are wonderful attributes of the human heart, but there is plenty of opportunity for them to be brought into full play without a Bergdoll.

That the strawberry crop of the Luthersburg region is endangered by the heat and dry weather is a fact known to all who have looked over the beds in that productive region, where it was expected that there would be a twenty-five carload crop. However, a good rain within the next three or four days ought to save it. The berries are just beginning to form and at the first should be no more than late. Cheaper berries will be coming. There is no occasion for being stampeded into buying berries at high prices. We always have "small crop" sales.

COMMERCIAL BANKING SERVICE

The most important function of the Commercial Bank is to lend money as its customers require it to develop or enlarge their business, or to maintain their credit by discounting bills.

Knowledge of the needs of business men comes from long service to the business community.

Ability to lend needed funds requires large invested capital and efficient management of the bank's funds.

The County National Bank has capital and surplus of over $1,300,000. Its officers and directors are business men of long and wide experience.

For more than a quarter of a century it has not refused to make a loan on account of lack of available funds.

Its officers invite conference with business men desiring a connection with an ably managed commercial bank.

LASTING SHADOWS OF FEAR

By FLORENCE DAVIES

It was late breakfast hour and the big cafeteria was almost empty.

"Do you mind if I bring my tray and come over here by you?" asked an acquaintance at a nearby table, "I just can't sit alone."

"Mind, why of course I don't mind, I'm delighted," I said as I moved my tray off the table to make room for her.

"It seems silly of me doesn't it?" the girl added, "but some times I just can't be alone, I feel as if the walls were falling in on me."

"So that's it," I said to myself, "Nerves."

It hardly seemed possible that a girl of twenty, with nothing in the world to worry about, should have acquired a well-developed fear like that.

"Perhaps," I suggested quietly, "there's something worrying you and you'd rather not talk about it. You needn't tell me," I added, "but it would be a whole lot better if you'd go and tell a doctor."

"But that's just it," the girl replied, face acquiver, "I don't know what to tell. I'd just as soon tell you if I knew what was wrong. But I don't understand it myself. I've always been this way, more or less, ever since I was a little girl. Right now there's nothing the matter except a little loss of sleep and the work has been a little hard. I suppose I've tried to burn the candle at both ends some too," she added.

"But even so," I argued, "that oughtn't to account for a mental state of this kind. Youngsters like you have always worked all day and played half the night, and while it's foolish, it doesn't usually result in hallucinations."

Quietly we sat and talked, rolling back the scroll of the past, and counting over the days of that little girlhood when the fears first began.

At last she admitted one deep-seated fear memory—those never-to-be-forgotten trips to bed in the dark when she was a little bit of a girl, and the well-meaning mother didn't believe in humoring such nonsense. "She used to tell me to run along and be a good girl, but I was always terribly afraid," the girl explained.

So that was it, and it was quite enough. How infinitely intricate and delicate a thing is the human mind at best, a thousand times more intricate than the mechanism of the finest watch or the most mysterious radio set.

With what exquisite care should this delicate miracle be treated then, in the delicate process of its unfolding, for how easily a careless word or action may do it lasting harm.

Had the little girl been a stone or more imbecile she would not have known the difference between light and dark. But because her intelligence was just developing, she sensed the difference but did not understand it.

How gently, then, should she have been helped through this first dark channel of fear, lest a slight stumble should jar the sensitive organism and leave a lasting scar. Today the girl of twenty is paying with "nerves" for the thoughtlessness of a well-meaning mother.

Black darkness is not the only thing of which children are afraid. Only the nerve specialists know what a price these frightened children pay for the parents who let fear, like some awkward monster, enter the fragile citadel of a little child's mind.

Swatfest In DuBois Ends In 13-8 Victory For The Clearfield Baseball Team

The Clearfield American Legion baseball team journeyed to DuBois yesterday afternoon and last evening before a magnificent audience composed of about twenty men, ten women, eight boys and three members of the Ku Klux Klan, succeeded in giving the DuBois Athletics a severe drubbing, winning the game by the score of 13 to 8.

The local boys started out like a whirlwind and before the third man was retired in the first inning had chased six runs across the rubber. This desirable result was brot about by four errors on the part of DuBois players, with a triple by Sol Robinson, Lansberry's single and a double from the bat of Rex Fauver.

A. Kohlhepp and Showers pitched for DuBois and were nixed for 13 hits. Rex Fauver, who took things easy after the big lead taken in the first inning, was touched up for 14 safe swats by the DuBois sluggers. Robinson, Lansberry and Flegal led the Clearfield team with the bat, while Spellan was the star slugger for DuBois.

VACATION DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL

Last night the meeting of the general committee brought several features of the school to almost a final action. The list of teachers was revised. By Friday night it will be accepted.

The course of study was provisionally adopted. The filling in for each day is now in process of completion. Three grades have been established: Beginners to include all under seven years; primary will receive children of seven, eight and nine years of age; juniors all more than nine years.

Beginners course will be on hymns, song, interpreted and memorized; music, with marches and drills, Bible stories that present children and young heroines from the great characters of sacred history; kindergarten work in drawing and cutting on line maps of the Holy Land. Scripture memorized.

Primary work will cover the beginning basic studies, but emphasized and adapted to primary grade ages stressing the biography and geography of the Bible; memorization of portions—especially the love verses, children's verses, first verses, beatitudes, psalms, commandments; mission verses of Christ and Paul. Special interpretation of hymns by motion.

Juniors will take up extensive memory work in hymns, scripture selections and the Bible as book, with its parts of law, history, devotion, prophecy, Gospel, epistles to churches and individuals, etc. The geography of the Holy Land will be broadened to cover not only outline maps of that country in its historic periods, but its rivers, mountains, cities, while biography will list up the famed characters of the Old Testament and New, a life of Christ. Mission as set forth in the New Testament, with the central position in stewardship—that we belong—everything of us, what we are and acquire, time and strength, etc., to God.

At graduation, will be a dramatization of a leading scripture character. The length of the school period is to be three weeks. Enrolling scholars opens on Sunday in the churches. Miss Lackey, deaconess of the Presbyterian church, will supervise that work.

COMPILING WORLD WAR DATA

Advancements of Men and Women During Great Conflict to Be Recorded in General History.

Compilation of the achievements of the men and women of the World war, and the establishment of a national historical archives for the preservation of documents and important data concerning the campaigns of the war, is the principal work which has fallen to the office of the national historian of the American Legion.

One of the most recent advances of this important cog in the Legion machine at headquarters in Indianapolis, is the completion of the biographical data of the men whose World war careers and prominence in Legion history will be of interest to Legion men in future years.

When E. Furness, of Wellesley Farms, Mass., national historian of the organization, whose entire time is devoted to the obtaining of data and records for the continuance of the archives section of the Legion, has designated much of this work for biographical reference to Harvey G. Thomas, assistant national historian formerly of the Illinois Legion.

Under Mr. Thomas' direction, accumulation of this data concerning nearly 8,000 Legion members throughout the 11,000 posts of the organization

Harvey G. Thomas.

In the world is progressing rapidly. Comprehensive questionnaires have been sent out and there is already a mass of this matter in his office, awaiting classification.

In preparation of this general history of the Legion, the history of each post is necessary. Through the state organization, requests are made to the individual posts for names of organizers, dates, the officers since the chartering of the unit, the progress in membership annually, all of which points out definitely the leaders in that post. This information is in turn gathered by the department historian, executive committee meetings and conferences. This combined with the post history will give the entire department history. The history of posts and departments will be added to the biographical data obtained by Mr. Thomas, making complete records for a Legion history, publication of which is now contemplated.

Thomas entered the service early in May, 1917. He received a commission of Lieutenant in infantry shortly afterwards and was assigned to the Fifty-eighth infantry, which later became a unit of the Fourth division. He went overseas with this organization and was with the regiment during the Aisne-Marne campaign. Wounded at Fismes, he was returned to the United States, landing on Annapolis day, and was released from the service in July, 1920, with the rank of captain.

FLOWERS ON NURSES' GRAVES

Maj. Julia C. Stinson Makes Trip to Paris to Decorate Last Resting Places.

Honoring the last resting places of eleven American nurses who sleep in Suresnes cemetery in France, an impressive ceremony conducted by United States representatives, and attended by American residents in France, recently marked the decoration of the graves of these brave women. Their bodies lie in the American cemetery, where sleep nearly 1,500 other American World war dead.

The cemetery, now a shrine of American patriotism, was chosen for the services presided over by Maj. Julia C. Stinson, former chief of the American nursing service and a member of the Jane A. Delano post of the American Legion of Washington, D. C. Major Stinson made the trip to France for the purpose of decorating the graves.

Col. Francis A. Drake of Paris represented the American Legion of Continental Europe at the services. Elliott Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the treasury of the United States, was present, as was Col. T. Bentley Mott of the American embassy, and other prominent members of the American colony in Paris. Prayers were recited by Dr. Frederick Beckman of the American church of the Holy Trinity.

Additional Wards Ordered.
An additional ward building has been authorized by the Oklahoma legislature for the Soldiers' Tubercular home at Sulphur, due to the efforts of the American Legion of that state. The legislature also authorized the construction of an additional ward to care for mentally incompetent and shell-shocked veterans at the Norman (Okla.) hospital, another suggestion of the Legionnaires. The expenditures in the two cases will reach $200,000.

American Farm Bureau

These Calves Will "Go to College."

Ralph W. Selkirk of Fishtail, Montana, recently gave three Hereford calves to the endowment fund of Beloit college, Beloit, Wisconsin. Selkirk agreed to raise the calves and sell them when fat, giving the proceeds to his Alma Mater. "The Herefords will double in weight and probably triple in value," he said. "The college will get about three times as much money as it would if I simply made a cash donation." Selkirk's calves were born in 1911.

AMERICANS CONSUME LESS MEAT IN 1922

Report on Per Capita Consumption Made Public by the Agricultural Department.

The individual American ate 25.4 pounds less meat in 1922 than he did in 1900. That is the substance of a report on per capita meat consumption just made public by the Department of Agriculture. This report has been received with intense interest by live stock raisers, packers, retailers and others whose business it is to supply meat.

These interests have recently perfected an organization which will conduct a nation-wide educational and advertising campaign to increase the consumption of meat. The live stock and meat board is composed of 11 representatives of producer organizations and six representatives from commission firms, packers and retailers. The board has selected R. C. Pollock as managing director in active charge of the campaign work.

The Department of Agriculture is actively backing the educational campaign of the board. Just recently a poster indorsing the food value of meat has been printed by the department.

R. C. Pollock, Managing Director.

This poster will play an important role in the national campaign. Live stock interests in general feel that the increasing of meat consumption to normal would have a great influence toward national prosperity.

It is a common belief among live stock men that unscrupulous statements by various interests have made a false impression upon the minds of the general public as to the food value of meat and its relation to health and vigor. With this in mind the educational campaign which is now under way is not to tell the general public to eat more meat but to tell the truth about meat.

ILLINOIS EXCHANGE DOES BIG BUSINESS

Report Shows That 1,052 Cars of Fruit Were Distributed During Season of 1922.

J. B. Leeper, manager of the Illinois Fruit exchange, has just made public the report of the business handled by the exchange in 1922. The report shows that 1,052 cars of fruit were marketed during the season, representing an aggregate value of $300,000, one or more cars of fruit found market in at least 115 points in 24 states and four Canadian provinces.

Affiliation of the Illinois exchange with the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., promises an even wider distribution during the season of 1923.

Apples, peaches, pears and strawberries were the fruits handled by the exchange during the year. Apples head the list with 701 cars shipped, closely followed by peaches with 432 cars. Strawberry and pear shipments totaled 70 and 50 cars, respectively. In addition, three mixed shipments were made.

The Illinois fruit exchange was organized in 1901 by county farm bureaus in co-operation with the fruit and vegetable marketing department of the Illinois Agricultural Association. Counties now having local organizations are: Adams, Clay, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Marion, Massac, Pulaski, St. Clair, Union and Williamson.

The work of directing the carlot sale and distribution is done at the headquarters in Centralia, Ill.

Assembling of the products was accomplished through the local organizations in the various counties. A majority of these locals had their own packing houses, including in their equipment, modern sizing machinery. Standardization and grading of the fruit was done at the local warehouses according to accepted Illinois and government regulations.

Adoption of the special trade brand "Illini," which appeared on trade-marks on all the fruit shipped by the exchange, gave distinction and valuable advertising to the fruit shipped and a good name was made by the product in all markets where shipped.

Wide distribution of products is one of the big reasons attributed to the success of the exchange during 1922. Formerly it was the practice of the majority of growers to consign to Chicago, causing a flooding of that market, and consequently low prices. With such a distribution system as was built up, fruit was kept away from Chicago, preventing that market from being flooded.

In one vicinity, the growers belonging to the local sold strawberries for a net average of $2.32 per crate while a large grower in the vicinity, not selling through the exchange, sold his product for $1.97, or 34 cents less per crate.

Many new locals are being organized in Southern Illinois, and a most successful outlook for 1923 is apparent.

SYRACUSE SELECTED FOR BIG DAIRY SHOW

Farm Bureau Federation and Other Farm Organizations Are Given Much Credit.

Syracuse, N. Y., has been selected for the 1923 National Dairy show. This year it has been announced by W. B. Sparks, secretary of the show. The show will be held at the New York State Fair grounds, the week of October 6, commencing with the Western Dairy Congress. The board of directors and executive committee of the National Dairy association which was entrusted with the selection of the site for the big exposition, chose Syracuse after the qualifications of several eastern cities had been carefully considered.

Enos R. Lee, president of the New York State Farm Bureau federation, in expressing gratification that New York State had secured the show, pointed out that Syracuse was awarded the honor in competition with several larger cities chiefly because of the active interest of the Farm Bureau federation and other farm organizations of the state, the State College of Agriculture, and the State Fair commission.

The exposition, which is arranged under the auspices of the United States government, will be one of the biggest agricultural events of the year. Every dairy nation has been asked to send representatives and exhibits. The invitations sent out by President Harding several months ago have been accepted by Canada, England, Denmark, Italy, France, Belgium and other nations.

St. Paul Refunds $78,000.
Cash refunds of $78,322 are ready to hand back to patrons of the Central Co-operative Commission association at South St. Paul on its business for the year. Gross sales of the Central for 1922 were $21,756,804. A total of 15,371 cars were handled.

Line Heads Idaho.
George A. Line, Blackfoot, Idaho, is the new president of the Idaho Farm Bureau federation. C. B. Ross is secretary. Headquarters are at Pocatello.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

RADIO IS USED BY LEGION

Widespread Membership of Veterans' Organization Reached by National and State Officials.

The voice of the American Legion is being heard over the radio by members of the organization throughout the country. Almost daily some officer or Legion leader talks to the widespread membership of the veterans' association using the wireless telephone as the means of dissemination. This is made possible by the installation of hundreds of receiving sets in the homes of local Legion posts throughout the country.

In practically every post may be found some ex-service man who worked with the wireless telephone through the days of the war, or who has become an ardent fan since the broadcasting of regular programs came into vogue. Officers of the Legion recognize this fact and are taking advantage of the closer touch afforded them by means of the latest "miracle."

One of the first instances of this use by officers was the broadcasting of National Commander Alvin Owsley's "keynote speech" from Lincoln, Neb. This was heard by Legionnaires all over the country, some as far away as the Atlantic coast.

State department commanders in many instances are beginning to make use of this method to reach their members, many urging the installation of receiving sets for this purpose.

In the future further use of the radio is planned. The Decoration day address of Commander Owsley in San Francisco is to be sent out by a powerful station, so that Legionnaires in the West may hear the commander at this time. At Kansas City, Mo., when a new Legion home was dedicated, Commander Owsley's talk was heard by Legionnaires of five states, who were asked to "stand by" at special meetings to hear the Legion leader.

Followers of radio, who are active in the Legion, predict that within a short time all official utterances of national officers of the ex-service men's organization will be relayed by radio to the more than three-quarter of a million members throughout the United States. And because of the power of many of the broadcasting stations, Legionnaires in other climes may soon be "listening in" on what their comrades at home in the states are doing.

HASTEN HANDLING OF CLAIMS

Decentralization of Legion Service Work Will Be Carried Out on Joe Sparks' Plan.

Decentralization of service work undertaken by the American Legion will be carried out by the use of a plan put into effect by Joe Sparks, national chairman of the committee of the Legion. This plan, Mr. Sparks believes, will expedite the handling of claims referred to the Legion, and will draw quick action on the part of the veterans' bureau.

Under the new system, all claims coming to the attention of the national service division will be forwarded direct to the Legion department service office in the state in which the claim originates. Contact with the subdistrict office of the United States veterans' bureau will be maintained by these offices, and the cases which have jurisdiction over the claims presented will be regularly visited. Any inattention or lack of co-operation by veterans' bureau heads will be reported to the national service division.

If for any reason a claim is not settled satisfactorily by the subdistrict office, the department head will refer to the liaison representative of the American Legion at the district office of the veterans' bureau. Files in the majority of the cases are in the office of the district in which the veteran lives.

COOKIES FOR DISABLED MEN

One Hundred and Thirty Auxiliary Units of Kansas Make Regular Delegations to Hospitals.

A cookie-jar containing 18,720 cookies should satisfy the most ravenous appetite.

That's the number of cookies prepared by members of the American Legion Auxiliary. Kansas for disabled veterans in hospitals at Kansas City and Leavenworth. There are 130 units of the Auxiliary in Kansas. Each unit prepares and mails 12 dozen cookies to the hospitals every month.

The cookies are sent to the chief dietitian of each hospital and she places them in big jars in the corridors. When the cookie jar is set out, the disabled men come from every ward, on crutches, in wheel chairs, and with canes rapping the floor, eager to get a hand in the jar.

Nurses say the boys reach around the jar until they find the cookies with nuts on them and fruit chopped up on the inside. The old-fashioned flat sugar cookies do not seem to be popular.

American Farm Bureau

Marguerite Martin is America's healthiest child. That was the judges' decision at the first national Boys' and Girls' Clubs congress held in Chicago a short time back. Marguerite is a fourteen-year-old Tennessee girl. She lives with her mother on a farm near Shepherd, Tenn., attends high school and wants to be a physical culture director. Her score was 96.5-10 out of a possible total of 100. Marguerite weighs 116 pounds, is 52.5-10 inches tall, has brown eyes and wears her hair bobbed. She wears her hair bobbed because she thinks it is graceful. She enjoys plenty of outdoor exercise, believes milk is a good beverage, eats only wholesome food, and abstains from too many sweets.

PLAN TO ERADICATE DREAD HOG DISEASE

Members of New Madrid (Mo.) County Farm Bureau Saved Much Money.

Hog cholera's eradication is one project of the New Madrid (Mo.) county farm bureau. It has been on the program of work for six years. In that time it has saved its members $314,876 by this one project. The loss to the farmers of this county every year due to the ravages of this disease was over $31,000 before the farm bureau was organized and began active work for the reduction of these losses. In the spring of 1923 the sixth annual survey was made and it revealed that the total loss to the farmers was only $20,502 in the last year.

In accomplishing this the New Madrid county bureau has been instrumental in reducing the number of farms reporting cholera from 157 in 1918 to 29 farms in 1923. In most of these cases the cholera was brought in by hogs shipped into the county and measures were taken immediately for its control.

In order to follow out the campaign in a systematic manner the New Madrid bureau sent out questionnaires to every farmer in the county each year to make a survey of the cholera conditions. In almost every instance these questionnaires were sent back to the bureau filled out with the necessary information.

In the sixth annual report sent out from the county the following facts are brought out: Number of farms reporting cholera April 1, 1918, 157; number reporting in 1923, 29; number reporting cholera during the year 1918, 183 in 1923; number of hogs lost from cholera, 12,440 in 1918; 2,574 in 1923; value of these hogs at 8 cents per pound, $31,520 in 1918, $20,502 in 1923; percentage of farmers who believe in vaccination, 60 per cent in 1918, 82 per cent in 1923.

These facts alone indicate the tremendous success of the New Madrid bureau in its campaign.

The actual savings to the members was computed at 8 cents a pound and does not take into consideration the high prices paid for hogs during the war period which would have practically doubled the savings.

In addition to the large decrease in cholera among the hogs, the pork production of the county has been built up through the efforts of the New Madrid bureau. A recent survey shows that there are approximately twice as many hogs in the county now as there was before the county farm bureau was organized.

MINNESOTA GROWS POTATOES

Leaders of Co-Operative Selling Agency Plan to Have Many Acres Under Contract.

One hundred thousand acres of potatoes under contract by July 15, is the goal of Minnesota leaders who are behind the movement to organize a co-operative marketing agency. This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee of 23, which appointed an executive committee composed of J. A. Monson of Abraham, Earl A. Barker of Bemidji, A. M. Dunton of Bagley, Marius Waldahl of Plummet and Walter Oby of Detroit, to have active charge of the details. S. G. Rubinow, who so successfully organized the Maine Potato Growers, will have charge of the campaign.

SONG OF LEGION AUXILIARY

"The Call of the Flag," Given to Organization by Author, Used in Americanism Campaign.

The patriotic appeal of the song, "The Call of the Flag," is to become one of the factors of the Americanism campaign which is being waged by the American Legion Auxiliary. This song, which has been adopted by the Auxiliary as its official composition, has a stirring air and possesses words which create a high enthusiasm among the hearers. The song was first heard by Legionnaires and Auxiliary members at the New Orleans convention, where it received the official endorsement of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Madge King Johnston, national vice-president and chairman of the Americanism committee of the Auxiliary, plans to make wide use of the official song in the work which is being undertaken by the Auxiliary along the lines of Americanism. The song is now being distributed by the national organization of the Auxiliary through its departments and local units. Recent popularization of the song has been assisted by broadcasting from various radio stations throughout the country, particularly on one patriotic holiday, when it was made a part of a special program.

Other ways of putting the composition before the public are being urged by Mrs. Johnston and through her efforts and those of other members of the committee, local units of the Auxiliary have received the endorsement of many civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations throughout the nation for the new song.

Mrs. L. D. Westfelt of New Orleans, who composed the song, turned over the plates, rights and arrangements for publication of future editions to the women of the Auxiliary. She advanced considerable money for the initial work, but freely gave this. Word has just been received by Mrs. Johnston from New Orleans telling of Mrs. Westfelt's death shortly after landing from a trip to Egypt and the Mediterranean sea.

A letter received by Mrs. Johnston told of her pleasure at returning home, and of her intense interest in the progress of the song. Mrs. Johnston, in a message to national headquarters of the Auxiliary says: "We will now feel that our work is a sacred obligation bequeathed to us in fulfilling her desires to aid the boys in this way."

The song may be obtained in sheet music form, orchestration, band arrangements and on player piano rolls. All rights to the composition have been relinquished by the composer to the Auxiliary.

FORD HOSPITAL DOORS OPEN

Detroit Institution to Admit Disabled War Veterans Who Are in Need of Attention.

A personal plan from Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, to Henry Ford has resulted in hospitalization for 300 disabled war veterans of Michigan.

Ford has agreed to throw open the doors of his big hospital in Detroit to every disabled ex-service man and woman in the state, following Commander Owsley's statement of the hopeless fight the Michigan veterans were making because the government failed to simplify the formal procedure through which applicants for hospitalization are forced to go and which has resulted in long delay in obtaining relief for the war fighters.

After hearing the Legion head's appeal, Mr. Ford immediately instructed the superintendent of the Henry Ford hospital to receive at once any man in need of hospital treatment who could produce proof of war service. The Ford hospital covers 20 acres in the heart of Detroit. It was used as United States general hospital No. 30 during and after the war.

Form Units of "Polar Bears."

Members of the detachment of American troops which served in Russia during the World war are forming units of the "Polar Bears." These men include a number of prominent Legionnaires who were on duty in the frozen north while their comrades were in France. They find much to talk about, according to reports of their meetings. Hard back at $10, cigarettes at $2.50 a package, nights in "bup" tents with the thermometer flirting around 50 below—these are among the topics of the former members of the A. E. F. in Russia. Units of the organization have been formed in Chicago and in Detroit.

Curwensville's Own Column

Ye writer made a slight misstatement when he sent Miss Myrtle Daub to Lock Haven Normal. Her father informed us yesterday that she went to Shippensburg to attend a college there.

Miss Marjorie Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wall, South Thompson street, left yesterday morning for Lock Haven and will enter as a student at the Normal school.

Master Gray McKenrick, whose home is at Warren, Ohio, is visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hips, South Filbert street.

The body of Wilbur Robinson arrived in Curwensville yesterday shortly after the noon hour and was taken to the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Fox, on North Filbert street, where it lay in state for several hours to be viewed by his old friends and acquaintances. His death occurred at his Pittsburgh home last Saturday, after a prolonged illness of cancer of the stomach, which was the primary cause of his demise. His age was about 57 years. He was the only son of Wilbur Robinson who died in 1909 and Clara R. (Bloom) Robinson, and was born and partially reared in this town. His mother married the second time, Richard Evans becoming her husband. Those who survive him are his mother, wife and five or six children and his sister, Mrs. Alice Wagoner, who resides at Irvona. "Bum" Robinson, as he was universally called by his boy friends, was a jovial well met fellow and had many friends in Curwensville, Clearfield and DuBois, who are sorry of his early demise. He was a nephew of Frank L. Robinson of this place. Interment of the body was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

During our time in life we have heard many bands, in fact during our earlier career tramped around over the country with one for more than ten years, but we must say that for the number of instruments in the Tall Cedar band from Ebensburg, which discoursed music on the street yesterday, we never heard one equal to it. Their music was high class stuff, rendered in a professional manner and the notes sweet to the ear. That band is a cracker jack and no mis-

Pardon Board Sits Under New Code For Three Day Session; Have 100 Cases

Harrisburg, June 20.—The State Board of Pardons met today under the reorganization code with the largest calendar in its history. The board was expected to sit three days to dispose of more than one hundred cases brought before it this month.

The pardons board becomes attached to the Department of Justice under the code and details were being arranged to transfer this function bodily from the Secretary of the Commonwealth offices.

take about it either.

Mrs. Harvey Graham, who resides in Curwensville with her husband who was a telephone operator, removing to Lumber City a few years ago fell in her home last Saturday and dislocated one of her hips. She was taken to Clearfield hospital on Sunday for medical treatment and bone adjustment.

Jack Gray, a former mine foreman at one of the mines in this vicinity, but removing to Clearfield about a year ago, was in Curwensville yesterday and became a member of Keystone Forest. Tall Cedars. Jack, like Zachary of old, is not very tall in stature, but he had the pep and spring in him to reach the tip top of the tree.

We noticed the familiar phiz of our old friend Ash Woolridge in town yesterday, he having come over from Woodland to be roped and hog tied and laid away in the forest of the new Tall Cedar camp which was instituted yesterday. Ash is proud of the fact that it was in Curwensville that he received the bulk of his early education, having been a student at the Normal School held here in the early seventies.

The work on the third floor of the Norris-Thompson-Wolf block has been about completed and the two large former lodge rooms converted into four nobby, little and convenient flats.

Miss Grace Smiley, who was one of the party in that auto wreck near Mineral Springs a few days ago, and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Fleming Monday, left yesterday for Clairton to take up her studies at the Normal. Her father, who was seriously injured is reported as getting along as nicely as can be expected.

The Last $100,000 Of Dempsey Guarantee Fund Due Tomorrow

Great Falls, Mont. June 20.—The Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Shelby on July 4th is getting to be a national institution.

Montana oil men were the first backers to extract great funds of coin from their bank accounts to assure the State that the July bout would be held here. Then the bankers came across. Now the railroads are getting ready to shell out. $100,000 to meet the final figure of the $300,000 purse guaranteed to Jack Dempsey is to be raised and deposited in the bank to the credit of the champion today or tomorrow. Officials of the Great Northern Railroad, it is reported are active on the drive for this $100,000. The Railroad, as a company cannot by law put up the money for such a purpose, but individuals of the company will advance the funds and lend it the moral support of the Great Northern name.

For Discolored Floors.
Scatter dry, clean sand over the floor and sprinkle over this a solution made by dissolving one pound of potash or pearl ash in a pint of water; scrub the boards thoroughly with a hard brush, using very hot water and plenty of soap, change the hot water frequently and wipe dry as you proceed. This potash, it used as directed, will take out all stains and is the very best means of whitening boards.

In Quigness.
There comes a time when all efforts of our own, seems vain; when whatever we do seems to work harm. Or we are fretted by the crowd of duties which press upon us so we cannot cope with them, and threaten to overwhelm us. Let us leave them all for a little while and sit still. With the quiet will come refreshment and renewed energy. Sometimes not doing but waiting is our duty.

MADGE BELLAMY "FOUND ON BROADWAY BY THOMAS INCE"

Madge Bellamy, the pretty little maid who plays Peggy Fairfax in "The Hottentot" at the Driggs theatre tonight, was "discovered" for the screen by Thomas H. Ince while she was playing on the New York stage.

Miss Bellamy, although she is only nineteen years old, has appeared successfully in eight Ince productions. She began her stage career when she was fourteen. Her work as "Nan" in "Hail the Woman" won her such applause that she was starred in Maurice Tourneur's "Lorna Doone." She is particularly charming in this racing comedy as the heroine for whom a chap who is desperately afraid of horses overcomes his fear and rides to victory in an exciting steeplechase.

SAWDUST PRODUCTS PLANT BURNS

Philadelphia, June 20.—The plant of the Sweepers Manufacturing Company, makers of sawdust products, was swept by an $80,000 fire today. Four firemen were overcome by smoke when they were trapped by flames in the upper floor of the building.

AGED IRVONA WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Mary Smeal, widow of the late Vincent Smeal, died at her home in Irvona last evening after an extended illness, the result of heart trouble. She is survived by several sons and daughters.

"I hear they are going to close up the saloons in Clearfield," "Yes," exclaimed Tarantula Tim. "The licker has been getting poorer every year and us citizens is willing to go without for awhile for the sake of punishin' the bartenders."

Mt. Etna Cooling Off A Little; Believe Worst Is Over In Region Laid Low

Catania, Sicily, June 20.—The destructive pace of molten lava flowing from 12 craters of Mt. Etna decreased today. Two more tiny townships have been completely swept from the face of the earth by the fiery streams. During the night the railroad station at Castiglione was submerged but hopes were entertained that more important cities might be spared.

The town of Giarre, which has 26,000 inhabitants has been completely evacuated, only the militia remaining. Unless fresh explosions and eruptions occur, it is believed the worst may be over. The lava is forming a crust and advancing more and more slowly.

LEAVY AVENUE PAVING BEGUN

Borough forces have begun the work of excavating for the paving of Leavy Avenue between Second and Third streets. This block will be paved with concrete, the roadway will be 20 feet in width and the property owners will pay two thirds of the cost of the improvement.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Kidney disease is too dangerous to neglect. At the first sign of back ache, headache, dizziness or urinary disorders, you should give the weak and kidneys prompt attention. Lighten the diet, take things easier and use a reliable kidney tonic. There is no other kidney medicine so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. Irvona people rely on them here's one of the many statements from Clearfield people:
Mrs. Mary C. Passmore, 419 W. Front St., Clearfield, says: "I have suffered off and on for a good many years with kidney trouble. When an attack has come on my back has been lame and sore and I have had earing down pains across my kidneys. My kidneys acted too frequently and I had nervous spells. I used Doan's Kidney Pills at such times and they always eased the aches through my back and head, regulated my kidneys and removed the nervous and dizzy spells."

Plans Of The Railroads For Greater Public Service

The Hall Mark

"Anticipating the greatest volume of freight traffic in their history this year, the railroads have adopted a concerted policy and intensive working program to enable them to meet the growing transportation needs of the country.

"In full realization of necessity for the greatest improvement and expansion possible of the country's transportation facilities to meet the growing demands of commerce, the railroads have authorized, since January 1, 1922, for cars, locomotives, trackage and other facilities, the expenditure of $1,540,000,000, of which $440,000,000 actually was expended during 1922.

"The railroads are raising this enormous amount of additional capital largely through borrowed money on the abiding faith in the fairness of the American people, and reliance on continuance of the policy announced in the Transportation Act of 1920, as a measure of reasonable protection to investment in railroad property.

"From January 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, the railroads purchased 223,616 new freight cars. Of these, 117,280 have been delivered and put in service. The railroads during that time also purchased 4,219 new locomotives. Of that number 2,106 have already been placed in service.

"The railroads confidently look forward to the successful movement of the largest volume of traffic in the history of the country and pledge their best efforts to that end."

—From a joint statement by the Association of Railway Executives and the American Railway Association.

Why They're Using JOINT-EASE FOR BURNING FEET

Just because it is now known that painful, sore, aching swollen feet are caused by the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet, thinking the trouble was only skin deep—an old fashioned idea.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical bathing and other foolishness for three days and just rub on Joint-Ease—And remember when stainless Joint-Ease goes in foot agony goes out—quick—60 cents a tube.
